The Editor's column

The editor was a guest last Friday at an open house at Glenbrook's new high school. The taxpayers of Northfield township whose high school educational tax rate is only 65c, are receiving a lot for their money.

The new building has features not to be found in any other school in this area. We are not jealous, but we wonder if Glenbrook appreciated the service that Palatine gave them last year. The only reference to Palatine was a slight mention by Stanley Hauseman, vice-president of the Glenbrook Board of Education.

Dr. Watson has surrounded himself with a top notch faculty. Industrial assessed valuation has had a large part in making it all possible.

After a tour through that building, our only regret is that some of the other high schools in this area are not able to spend that kind of money. The school anticipates an increase in valuation which will give it the right to issue from $100,000 to $200,000 additional bonds each succeeding year.

Glenbrook appreciates its membership in the Northwest Conference, but with a rapid growth, thinks that the time may not be far distant when it will become too large a school for the present conference. Its tuition rate is $600. Seniors who elect to complete their high school education in other schools, must pay their own tuition.

Arlington Heights and Palatine elementary schools will each hold important elections Sept. 19. Palatine school system faces a $50,000 deficiency this year. It is asking a 21c increase in tax rate. If the voters deny the increase rate, the kindergartens may be closed and there will be additional half day sessions. Palatine is already borrowing from "Peter to pay Paul" by means of tax anticipation warrants.

Arlington Heights school is asking a bond issue to purchase a new school site. The mothers and dads of the children of these two schools will see to it that both elections carry, which is the only answer.

One Arlington Heights boy nearly lost his life last week while riding at State and George streets. Unless somebody teaches those bike riders respect for the rules of the road, there will be a fatality at this point next week. Parents perhaps it will be your boy. ..is safety is your responsibility.

Chief Skoog says that too few boys and girls are obeying the rules of the road. Licenses have been issued to 1700 bike riders.

The personal property lists will be published for six northwest townships next week. Stories released by John S. Clark, comparing the totals of 1952 and 1953 will also appear in the next issue. The farming township of Schaumburg has made the largest percentage increase in personal property valuations in the county. The increase came solely from corporations.

In all townships the individual assessments have dropped due to fewer penalties being necessary as more property owners file schedules. Wheeling township had a $330,000 jump, solely from corporations.

Postmasters and mail carriers are delighted with a new postal regulation which puts into the discard the old provision that name and address must be fixed on advertising literature that is destined for residents of villages and cities with city mail delivery service.

The new order saves the sorting time by the postal clerks and cuts the time of the carrier in casing his deliveries. The only label required on such matter is "patron letter carrier route."

We have waited three years to learn the price that the North Western railroad thinks it should receive for its Arlington Heights parks. The price is not bad, if it gave title to the village for the park area now in grass and commuter parking lots. We feel it is too high if the company insists upon retaining practically half of that area.

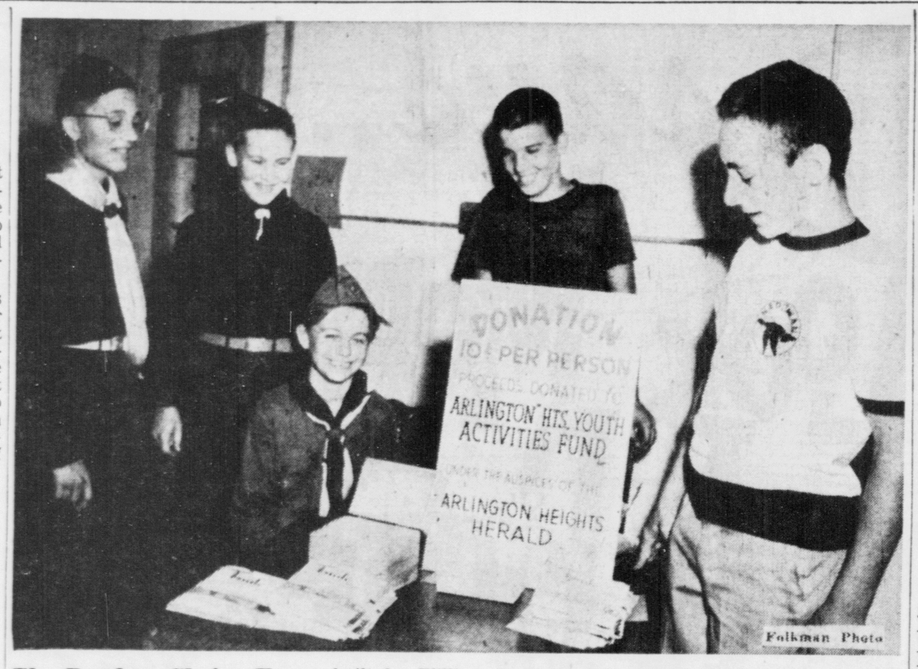

It is now up to somebody to start horse trading. Perhaps the land department which made the sale appraisal does not know how small a piece of pie the municipality would get for its money.

We stated last week at a meeting of the members of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce that unless its members present some concrete solution to the parking problem, parking meters are on the way. After reading a preliminary report of the subcommittee of the plan commission, we are further convinced.

The extras on the general contract of the addition to Palatine high school is reported to have been four-tenths of one per cent. That is some record. Palatine consolidated school district No. 15 expects to do as well. It has the same architect.

The Readers Choice House built by William E. Trude will benefit local youth as the ten cent voluntary donation asked of visitors will be donated to various youth organizations. The money will be turned over to the editor of the Arlington Heights Herald for distribution.

There is no telling as yet how large the amount will be, but if Trude's estimate of over ten thousand people is correct, the fund could grow to a thousand dollars or more. In the first opening days of the Model House, donations amounted to about fifty dollars a day.

Trude told the editor of the Arlington Heights Herald that there would be no strings attached to the money. "It will be entirely up to the editor of the Arlington Heights Herald as to how the money will be spent."

Railroad Offers Parks To Village, $235,000

Land Department Willing To Submit 'Fair Offer' To Board

The village of Arlington Heights can buy the railroad parks for $235,000. There are seven parks offered. The park on which the depot stands is eliminated, which leaves four parks south of the railroad and three adjacent to Northwest highway.

The offer of sale came to Alderman Rehfeldt in reply to a letter written by him in July. He had previously called on the land department of the railroad for the purpose of personally learning if there were any negotiations in progress covering the sale of the parks.

The letter to him definitely sets at rest rumors that private interests are negotiating at the present time for some of the railroad property.

A LOCAL REALTY man diagnosed the situation as follows: "Based on prices asked by owners of property along South Dunton, some of the parks in their entirety would be a bargain at $35,000 each. However, if the company desires to retain a strip 70 feet on both sides of its tracks as it signified two years ago, the remaining grounds would not permit large commercial building. Along the highway it could only be used for small shops; larger stores could be constructed on Davis st."

Two years ago the company signified that it desired to sell a strip 52 ft. wide on the north side of the tracks and about 70 feet on the south. A representative told Paddock Publications Monday that the company would retain ownership of land now used for commuter parking, which in turn sets at rest the possibility that all day meters could be installed thereon.

THE LETTER received by Alderman Rehfeldt follows:

"Acknowledging receipt of your letterof July 15, relative to the possible acquisition by the Village of Arlington Heights of certain of this company's property now occupied by the Park District for park and by the Village for parking purposes under a sublease arrangement in your village.

"Please be advised that we have given consideration to the possibility of the sale of this property to the Village of Arlington Heights as was originally planned when Mr. H. J. Thal, who was then Village Attorney, called at this office, and we would be willing to recommend to our management that this property be sold to the Village for a consideration of $235,000.

"In the third paragraph of your letter, on page 2, you state that these parks were given to the C & NW RR Co. by the founder of Dunton Corners. I do not know upon what information you base your statement. We have no record in this office that the property was ever donated to the Railway Company.

"We have declined to sell this property to other people until we receive a satisfactory price and certainly I believe that your statement is entirely in error when you indicate that this property is being optioned to outsiders and that the Village is being asked to bid against them. We have optioned this property to no one; nor have we ever asked the Village of Arlington Heights to bid for the premises. We have certain responsibilities to our Board of Directors and we would certainly be criticized if we were to dispose of the property for less than its fair value. Any arrangements which are made of course would be subject to the approval of our various interested departments and Board of Directors."

Development Of Rolling Meadows In Full Swing

Home building and other activities are moving so fast in Rolling Meadows, the Kimball Hill development, that a lot of people, other than home seekers, are visiting the tract.

All of plat one has been sold out and building construction is being rushed on the entire acreage. Eight model homes will be constructed, one of which is completed. Two of the remaining seven will be "cut-away" homes which will lay bare the construction and materials used.

THE FIRST WELL, for which a 20-inch casing is being sunk, is down to rock and a start will soon be made on well number 2. Water and sewer mains are being constructed on two of the streets. Contractors have also started at Weller Creek and Central rd. on the connection with the Chicago Sanitary District sewer.

Eight homes are being reserved for possible school use until the promised school house is erected next spring. "Until we learn exactly the number of children of school age, we will not make definite school building plans," says Kimball Hill, "but we will keep our promise to the Palatine school board."

MANDAMUS proceedings will be started this week against the Arlington Heights Plan Commission because of its refusal Monday night to approve plat number 2. Attorneys consulted by them agree with Attorney Thal that there is little doubt but that the court will order the Plan Commission to give its approval.

Representatives of Kimball Hill think that the recently passed ordinance of the village which, if forcible, would require the operation of certain village services in that area, will likewise be declared invalid. Kimball Hill has signified that if necessary that firm will carry its case to the Supreme Court.

Ten Year Old Cyclist Killed by Truck

A 10-year-old cyclist was killed instantly Tuesday of last week when struck by a truck on rte. 58 near Lawrence ave. and his home.

The victim, who died of a skull fracture, was Donald Gronewold, son of John and Anna Gronewold, rte. 53, northwest of Itasca.

The truck was being driven south on the highway by Victor Coiley, 25, Glen Ellyn, when the boy, also heading south, made a u-turn in front of it, sheriff's deputies reported. An inquest conducted Wednesday morning at Geils funeral home, Bensenville, termed the death "accidental."

Plan Commission Votes To Stand Pat On Existing Ordinances; Expect Fight

Arlington Heights Plan Commission, by a vote of five to two Monday night, denied Kimball Hill approval of plat No. 2 of Rolling Meadows.

Such action by the commission was not unexpected by the subdivider who has stated that he will start immediate court action to not only "clear" the above plat, but will question an ordinance passed July 31, which placed restrictions on property outside of the village, but within a 1½ mile radius.

THE ORDINANCE requires 66 ft. lots and construction of homes meeting the village code. Although application of approval for plat No. 2 was made prior to the passage of the July 31st ordinance, the commission hopes courts will declare the provisions of the ordinance effective.

Attorney Thal stated that if the ordinance is worth defending, any proceedings started by Kimball Hill would probably have to be carried to the supreme court. He suggested that the village board be consulted in regard to its willingness to spend several thousand dollars to support the new ordinance.

Above decision was reached after nearly an hour discussion. The commission accepted the recommendation of a subcommittee and gave its approval to the Lutgert subdivision north of Oakton, west of Wilke. The developer has accepted the suggestion of the commission by giving all streets 66 ft. widths and dedicating a park area facing Thomas street.

NEW U.S. CENSUS GIVES ARLINGTON 13,380

Referendum For New School Site Set For September 19

At a special meeting August 27, the board of education of Elementary School District 25, Arlington Heights, adopted a resolution calling a special election September 19, M. L. Kurtz, secretary of the board, reported Tuesday. At this election, the voters will be asked to approve the purchase of a 19-acre site on E. Miner st.

The ballot will include a proposition to approve the issuance of a maximum of $45,000 for the cost of this site.

THIS AMOUNT is well above the value of the land as determined by two reputable appraisers retained by the board of education. It is also greater than the amount that has been offered to the owners by the board. Consequently, the board feels relatively certain that this total amount authorized will exceed the cost of the land and other costs involved, even if it becomes necessary to invoke condemnation procedure in order to secure the site. It is not uncommon for it to become necessary for the courts to establish the value of a site where a public body and the owners cannot agree upon a price.

The board has spent almost a year in deciding upon a proper location for a northeast site and in attempting to reach an agreement with the owners, preparatory to submitting the matter to the voters of the district. During this time it has become increasingly apparent that the school district must have a site for an eventual junior high school on the north side, as well as for another elementary school on the north side. This is well located for both purposes and should eventually lend itself to a development similar to the south side junior high school-elementary school site.

ROBERT R. Lockwood, president of the board, states that the fact that the next step in its building program will be the enlargement of the New South and Ridge buildings does not detract from the importance of securing the site now under consideration while it is available. He points out that junior high school and particularly elementary school sites must be carefully chosen in order to be properly located for young children.

Superintendent R. E. Clabaugh indicated that estimates show that the junior high school wing constructed three years ago and all of the South school should be occupied by junior high school students by 1955-56.

Election hours will be from 12 noon to 7 p.m. and the polling places will be: for those north of the North Western Railway, the North school; for those south of the North Western Railway, the South school. Requirements for voting are the same as for any election, except that one is not required to be a registered voter.

State's Attorney Warns He Really Means Business In Tax Collection

The State's Attorney has been advised that there have been rumors spread by various busybodies of self-seeking individuals that the drive being made for a fair and thorough collection of personal property taxes is merely talk and is not being made in earnest.

"Already this year the response of the public to the efforts of the justices of the peace and the state's attorney's office has exceeded any previous year and we have just begun," says State's Attorney Gutknecht. "We are asking the citizens to cooperate with their justices of the peace and magistrates to pay their fair tax and bring to his attention or that of the township assessor or direct to the state's attorney at 507 County Building, any unfairness or favoritism."

THE STATE'S Attorney's office will file real estate liens on any unpaid judgments.

Gutknecht says, "As public minded citizens, let's each of us bear a little of the load so it will be fairer for all."

The following magistrates and justices of the peace are acting in the following townships:

Barrington - Palatine, A. J. Haggenjos, 110 Coolidge ave., Barrington.

Wheeling - Schaumburg - Hanover-Elk Grove-Maine, William Weber, 738 N. Pine, Arlington Heights.

JUDGES WEBER and Haggenjos passing on to delinquent personal property taxpayers instructions they have received from the state's attorney, which reads in part:

"Unless personal property taxes are settled within the specified time as stated in notices sent to delinquents, summons will be issued, the case will be set for trial with an assistant state's attorney in attendance to prosecute cases. If not settled, extra costs and constable fees will be added, with execution and levy, or transcript against any real estate found in Cook County and owned by taxpayer."

"IT IS THE DESIRE of the state's attorney," says Weber, "to be fair, and at the time of hearing, any legitimate complaints will be heard. We are both in agreement that if all pay their share, the tax load on the rest will be easier."

Those who have not paid their personal property tax bills for several years have all the more reason why they should "see the judge." Those delinquencies and penalties can add up to a considerable amount.

Mr. Weber will be at the Wheeling Township office during September Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. and Saturdays from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Name Public Relations Man To Aid Village

The appointment of E. J. Lewinski as public relations director for the village of Arlington Heights was approved by the village board Tuesday night. He will serve in that capacity until April 30, 1954, and will not receive a salary.

As public relations director it will be his duty to attend all improvement association and village board meetings, keeping all parties currently informed of the respective action of each group. It will also be his responsibility to assist the village board and board chairmen in the preparation of various statistical reports for news releases, coordinating his releases with the editor of the Arlington Heights Herald, so as to clearly present all facts to residents of the village.

TRUSTEE Charles Rehfeldt asked that this paper make an appeal to residents who have driveways to park their autos in them instead of on the streets. He feels that if all unnecessary on-street parking is eliminated it would allow traffic to move more freely along village streets.

The board passed an ordinance that prohibits minors from entering taverns or liquor store within the village limits. They will be permitted to enter a restaurant or lunch room which serves liquor, providing the bar is separated from the eating area by a partition. If accompanied by a parent or legal guardian they will be permitted to enter a tavern or bar, but they may not buy or be served intoxicating liquor.

All liquor dealers will be required to post signs and to enforce this ruling. The ordinance appears elsewhere in this issue.

Stories of the opening of school sessions appear this week on page 4, section 2.

Evanston Headquarters For Crime Prosecution In County North Area

Judge John Gutknecht, State's Attorney of Cook County has announced that after a study of several months he will divide the suburban area under his jurisdiction into three divisions. The areas will be divided into the North Section, the West Section and the South Section. The Municipal Court Building in Evanston will be the headquarters of the North Section.

The change was made by Judge Gutknecht after consulting with officials and police chiefs in the suburbs. This area has increased tremendously in population, and they expressed the desire to have more assistants assigned to them to attend all court hearings where criminal matters are involved and advise the officials and police departments. Judge Gutknecht has felt that more assistants should be assigned to the suburbs so the residents will have a better opportunity to consult with them whenever they feel they have been the victim of a fraud.

For the present Judge Gutknecht has assigned John Reed to the North Section with Russell Behrens as Supervisor.

Means An Increase Of Over Fifty Percent In Three Years

One of the biggest highlights of the Tuesday night Arlington Heights village board meeting was the opening of the sealed envelope which contained the preliminary announcement of the 1953 census in the village.

The new figure of 13,380 was given as compared to the figure of 8,768 in April, 1950, making an increase of 4,612 residents in that period of time.

This figure will be entered in Washington as the official count unless it is questioned as to its authenticity on or before September 8, 1953.

RESIDENTS in the 800 to 1000 block on E. Frederick st. petitioned the board to allow them to have the sidewalk in that area placed adjacent to the curb, instead of set back from the curb as the original improvement plans call for.

The board is agreeable with the petitioners to allow the sidewalk to be placed next to the curb. It is up to the residents to notify the contractor of the board's approval. If the contractor is not agreeable, he will be asked to come before the board for further discussion of the problem.

The village dads stood pat on their original action to prohibit the operation of a nursery school at 215 S. Mitchell. Attorney Byron S. Mathews, counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, operators of the school, said he did not feel the school was in violation of the zoning ordinance inasmuch as the code reads that schools are permitted to operate in residential areas.

The board felt he was taking a broad interpretation of the ordinance which they felt applied to only public and parochial schools, and not schools for private profit.

Both Village Attorney Hugo Thal and Mathews agreed it was definitely a legal question as to the correct interpretation of the ordinance.

DESPITE THE FACT the Millers presented a petition signed by various residents of Arlington in favor of the school, the board felt since no one in the immediate area of the school had signed the petition they could not consider it as justification for the continued operation of the school. Four residents living in the immediate vicinity of the school were present to voice their protests.

Everett H. Lindgren was given permission to make a two flat out of the home at 14 E. Euclid, providing he erect a second enclosed stairway to the top floor.

Plans for a new Texaco gas station at 1604 W. Northwest hwy. were presented to the board for approval. They were accompanied by a petition signed by 22 property owners in the immediate vicinity, all of whom approved of its erection.

The board directed the plans be turned over to the building committee for its approval.

Arlington Plating Co. at 11 S. State rd., sought permission for veneering and making a two-story building out of the existing one and two-story combination. The matter was referred to the zoning board of appeals.

The tax levy ordinance totaling $520,053.35, was read and passed.

Motor fuel allotment for the month of July amounted to $4,-108.59.

CARL BEHRENS was given permission to remove the building at 100 N. Dunton to the northeast corner of Dunton and Northwest hwy., and to keep it there no longer than one year. Behrens plans to erect a new two-story office on the old site, and will use the old office as headquarters until the building is completed.

Chief of Police Carl H. Skoog was granted a week off with pay to attend the International Police Chief's convention in Detroit, beginning September 13.

Two Cyclists Hit, One Hurt; Steal Auto Parts

Topper Barlow, 5, son of the Walter Barlows, 726 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, collided with an auto being driven by Nick Perrino, 37, of 4025 N. Kolmar, Chicago, August 25.

The police report shows that Topper was riding his bike north on Vail when he struck Perrino's auto, traveling west on Park at a slow speed. The lad was taken to Dr. Robert Kloempken for medical examination and it was found he suffered no injuries.

Tom Henry, 14, of 919 W. Campbell, was another auto-bike collision victim, the accident occuring August 28 at S. State rd. and George st. Tom was riding his bike south on State rd., when he attempted to turn left into George st., crossing in the path of an auto driven by William Trude, which was headed north on State rd.

The boy was taken to Dr. Royal Fitch, who found he suffered a minor spinal injury and severe contusions of the right leg and ankle.

TWO BOYS, three and four years old, were reported missing from their homes, and were soon located on another street by the police department. Fireman Melvin Laseke aided in the rescue of a three year old girl who had locked herself in the bathroom. He removed the door from its hinges and released the child.

A 12 year old girl was accidently locked into the attic of her home and Police officer Dieball came to her rescue, using a ladder to take her out the attic window. The lock on the door was found to be faulty.

Thomas L. Foley, 3643 N. Spaulding, Chicago, conductor on the Chicago and North Western railway, reported to the Arlington police that a rock, the size of a baseball, was thrown through the coach window at the Central rd. crossing, as it was leaving Mount Prospect. It broke the window and his eye glasses, getting glass in his eye. He was treated by Dr. Robert Muench and was able to board the next train for Crystal Lake.

Skinned knees and hand and a bump on the head was suffered by Mrs. Victor Saunders, Wheeling, who was a passenger in her husband's car, which collided on S. Highland with one driven by Norma Schaad, of 636 S. Highland.

Mrs. Schaad was attempting to turn into her driveway as Saunders tried to pass her on right.

SEVERAL PETTY thefts of automobile accessories were reported to the police, three of which occurred in the Arlington Theatre parking lot. Victims were W. J. Maloney, Algonquin rd., who lost a light tan fender skirt off the right rear fender of his auto; John McDonough, 7059 Magoum st., Hammond, who lost four full-wheel chrome hub caps stolen off his 1952 cadillac.

Norman Bauske, 102 E. Orchard told police a voltage regulator and generator was stolen off his 1941 Chevrolet. The car was parked on an alley stub near his home.

Decision on One-Way Streets Expected Soon

Arlington Heights Plan Commission is delaying two weeks a definite recommendation on the parking situation. The suggestion of one-way streets, south of the track, was partially studied Monday night. The members will make a on-the-street survey this week. There seems to be some faults in each one-way street plan.

The sub-committee presented a parking plan, which would extend over a number of years, which included the formation of a parking authority, installation of meters and unlimate lease of Lattof property, east of Tibbits Cameron Lumber Co.

Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce devoted an entire luncheon meeting last Thursday to a discussion of parking matters. Suggestions were nearly as many as there were members present. However, a majority agreed that parking meters should be avoided, if possible.

Palatine and Arlington To Hold Hospital Conference Friday

Palatine as well as Arlington Heights and Niles, has hospital plans. A conference to be held at the Palatine fire house Friday evening will be attended by Palatine and Wheeling township men and women who are interested in the organization of a hospital. The joint meeting has been called because it is realized that it will take a united effort of a large area to achieve the hospital aims.

The story of the start of the Wheeling township hospital plans as included in a professional survey appears this week on page one of section four. Succeeding stories on the same subject will appear on that page the next three weeks.

Labor Day

By tradition Labor Day has come to mean a day of tribute to the great heroes and achievements of the American labor movement —a purpose we join most heartily.

But this year let us give special thanks that we celebrate Labor Day in America—a land of free men, not slave laborers.

Larry Fenlon Runs For National Office

Lawrence J. (Larry) Fenlon, 430 S. Dunton st., Arlington Heights, will be presented by the delegates at the National Legion convention as a candidate for the office of national commander.

Mr. Fenlon is a past commander of the Illinois department of the American Legion and has held numerous other offices throughout the organization. At present he is a member of the Legion's National Economic commission. He was also one of the principals who drafted the original GI Bill of Rights.

In civilian life Mr. Fenlon is an attorney with the Sanitary District. One of his ten children, Margaret Mary, (also a Legionnaire) will place his name in nomination at the St. Louis Legion convention.

The Fenlons moved to Arlington Heights early this spring. In the event Mr. Fenlon is successful in his campaign local Legionnaires have already made plans for a gigantic homecoming celebration.

"SUMMER IS FOR CATCHING UP"
by Thayer Cummings

Come, come, the intermission's over. The curtain's going up on Summer.
Read up, read up, my friends, This act is short, too short For all the treasures to be counted.
Dive deep into the cool waters ("The Sea Around Us"), Or climb up to touch a star ("Anna Purna").
Explore the shadows of the forest ("The Light in the Forest"), Or the dusty mysteries of the temples ("Gods, Graves and Scholars"). Rebuild your faith ("This I Believe").
With the lively oracles of God (Holy Bible, Revised Standard Version) Or your game ("Be a Better Woman Golfer").
Or your friendship with the glamorus ("Desiree"), Or the humorous ("Mink on Weekdays"), Or slightly embittered youth ("The Second Happiest Day"). Or look back wistfully on the years ("The Big Change").
Join the Navy—("The Caine Mutiny")—and see the world! ("North from Malaya").
But hurry, hurry, hurry, Read up read up, my friend, Before the curtain's down, And summer's gone too soon.

DURING THE past two and a half months, children haye participated in a Summer Reading Program sponsored by the Library. CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

The first fall meeting of the Newcomer's club is today, Thursday, when the new season is inaugurated with the traditional fall tea. All newcomers to the village are invited to drop in at the field house between 2 and 4 for a cup of tea and a chance to meet others new to Arlington.

The club year will really swing into action two weeks later when a business meeting is held, also in the field house but at 8 p.m. New officers will be elected at that time. Movies and refreshments will follow.

All who have lived in Arlington Heights less than two years are invited to become members of the Newcomers club. The club holds regular monthly meetings on the third Thursday, and, in addition, sponsors activities such as hobby groups, bridge tournaments and luncheons. The women are the actual members of the club but husbands are invited to attend pot luck suppers, square dances, etc.

Modern Living

Modern living, with the emphasis on the modern, is our impression of the Better Homes and Garden house now on display on the south side of Arlington Heights. It was built by the Trude Land Development co.

Some of the features could bear incorporating into any up-to-date home. The wonderfully convenient kitchen, for instance, or the first floor laundry room, would be definite work-saving features. The built-in television set and radio in the living room appealed to us, as did the solid wall of closets in the master bedroom. We'd also like the practically-eating-outside feature of the terrace dining room.

In short, this modernistic home is thought-provoking and idea provoking, and will no doubt be imitated in one form or another by many future home builders.

School Days

The first thought in most people's minds when the first of September arrives is "school starts." Both children, and their parents, it seems, are looking forward to it. Summer is wonderful, is every one's opinion, but it has also lasted long enough.

Public elementary schools and the high school will open next Tuesday, with the two parochial schools following Wednesday.

Grade school children in the public schools, with the exception of kindergarten and first and second grades, will report for classes Tuesday morning. Most of the first week for the latter will be spent in conferences by the teachers with the parents.

St. Peter Lutheran school children will begin their year with a service of worship and will then proceed to their classes. At St. James classes will dismiss at 10:30 a.m. the first day, and pupils will then return in the afternoon for textbooks.

TV NEWS

by Don Hager

Much has been said about live versus filmed TV shows, but one thing that's usually forgotten is that there are several different ways of filming shows . . . and the technique makes a lot of difference.

The usual method employs only one camera. "Dragnet," "Life of Riley," "My Little Margie," and many other filmed shows use this method. Individual scenes are shot and pieced together, like a movie. The second method is a multiple camera with audience system. The Groucho Marx show, "I Love Lucy," "Our Miss Brooks" and others use this technique. It has the advantage of live audience reaction. A third method is used for some of the new Jack Benny shows, the Joan Davis show, "Burns and Allen," and others. It uses three cameras with no audience, allowing more freedom in shooting. Often laughter is dubbed in on these shows, or the film is shown to an audience and its reaction is recorded.

So when you start arguing about live and filmed TV shows, you really have to state what kind of filmed show you mean! One thing is sure . . . If the show is good, the audience will like it no matter how it's made. The quality of the show is what counts in the end. Efficient reception from your TV set counts for a great deal too. Our expert service department checks and services your set, to your complete satisfaction. DON HAGER'S TV & APPLIANCE, 11 West Davis Street, Arlington Heights. Phone CLearbrook 3-0700.

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

In the past few years there has been a development of emphasis on men's work in the churches. For a number of years we ignored the men while we built up women's organizations. Now we suddenly discover that we need to encourage men's work in our churches.

Along with many others, I have been circularized from time to time to encourage men from our church to attend this or that retreat or conference for Christian men. In all this circularization, I have missed seeing one important item. This is the item which seems to me to be the most important single consideration for a Christian man.

"WHAT HAS my being a Christian got to do with my daily work?" No group seems anxious to tackle this proposition. There are a number of programs and slogans for getting men to use their leisure time for Christian work, and that's a good thing.

There seems to be an unconscious assumption similar to that which Mr. Wilson expressed to the Congressional committee considering his qualifications for Secretary of Defense, "What's good for General Motors is good for the country." Apparently, a man's business relations are automatically Christian if he spends three evenings a week working for the church.

I hate to differ, because I wish it were true, but "it ain't necessarily so."

This was pointed up for me last winter when a missionary, who is engaged in relief and rehabilitation in Europe, came out to our house. He came out on the train with one of the men from our church.

The missionary told me that he was glad for the opportunity. Living in Europe in these postwar years, he had forgotten the extent to which American men are under tensions in their business lives. It is not the old dilemma of being forced to make decisions contrary to their faith. It is that, increasingly, their faith has no relation to their decisions and actions.

Labor day is a good time to stop and think. Why am I doing what I am doing? Who do I serve through my labor? Am I doing anything that helps my fellowmen, or that represents an advance of the Kingdom of God?

WHY DO America's responsible business leaders drink too much on week ends, drive themselves to exhaustion, hypertension and ulcers? Might it not be partially true that the church has failed to help them see the worthwhileness of the task at which they spend eight hours of nearly ever day?

Go and sit down and talk to your minister. Tell him that you appreciate his concern for the church as he tries to get you to do specific tasks. But ask him if he cannot help you to understand the worth of what you are doing every day. Will it really make any difference a hundred years from now?

Of course it will. An honest workman is one of God's noblest works. He lights a beacon of influence that guides persons he may never see. He wins the eternal integrity of his own soul. You have a right to that.

William Gerbosi to Head 1953 Community Chest Drive in Heights

Henry B. Hutten, president of the Arlington Heights Community Chest, announces that its board of directors have approved the selection of William A. Gerbosi as chairman of the 1953 Community Chest drive. Gerbosi has appointed Weir Swanson as vice chairman of the drive committee. Swanson was also appointed as a new member of the budget committee.

During the next few weeks Gerbosi and Swanson will arrange for the various meetings necessary to properly organize the necessary personnel such as sectional chairmen, area chairmen and block captains.

The assistance of all of the sectional organizations is earnestly desired in order to make this drive a success. In addition, the organized help of the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will be appreciated.

The budget committee invites the prompt receipt of appropriations from the various local agencies such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Brownies, the Youth Center, the Library Fund and also the newly organized Little League.

The actual time of the drive will be announced in a few weeks.

"Support from all residents, business men and the industrial plants will be needed," said Hutten, "in order to make this 1953 Community Chest drive the success that it should be so that we may adequately support the various local recipient groups, who deserve all the financial assistance we can give to them."

Three Departments Answer Fire Call At Reitzel Farm

Six pieces of equipment from the Mount Prospect, Palatine (rural) and Arlington Heights volunteer fire departments were called to the J. A. Reitzel farm, Algonquin rd., a mile east of State rd., Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. to battle a blaze that had broken out in the garage on the property.

The fire was extinguished within 20 minutes, but not before a 1953 Plymouth station wagon parked in the building had been completely destroyed. In addition, the garage, and a 1939 Packard coupe it also housed, were extensively damaged. No estimate of the loss was immediately made.

Passersby noticed smoke pouring from the garage and quickly notified Mrs. George Medley, a tenant in the Reitzel home. She called the Arlington Heights fire department. Since it was more damaged than anything else, firemen theorized that the fire must have broken out in the station wagon.

Reduced Fares For Fall Vacationers

Families at all points served by the Chicago and North Western railway will be able to travel to western vacationlands at sharply reduced fares beginning September 1, it was announced today by J. R. Brennan, passenger traffic manager of the North Western.

Brennan, said that under a new family fare plan, the head of the family purchases one adult first class fare at the regular rate and then may obtain first class rail fares for the other parent and each eligible member of the family at one-half the regular rate. Children 5 to 12 pay half fare and children under 5 travel free.

The tickets are good on all trains and the same reduction applies where extra-fare charges are made. The reduced fares apply from all North Western stations to Union Pacific railroad destinations — LaSalle and Denver, Colorado, and Cheyenne, Wyoming, and stations beyond.

The more important the day, the happier the thought that suggests sending FLOWERS!

Eleanor Loeding And Joseph Hodges Wed

St. John's Lutheran church of Niles was the scene of the wedding August 22, of Miss Eleanor Loeding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Loeding of Niles, and Joseph Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hodges Sr. of Chicago.

Rev. Martin Behling officiated at the double ring ceremony held at 7 o'clock. Baskets of white carnations and gladioli formed the setting for the ceremony. Miss Jean Ironside of Chicago sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white ballerina length gown of lace and nylon net fashioned with a high nekline, long sleevs, a lace bodice and lace panels inserted in the bouffant nylon skirt. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a crown of orange blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations, Amazon lilies and lilies of the valley with white streamers.

Miss Elaine Loeding, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a deep aqua strapless gown with a matching lace jacket. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Miss Doris Mae Loeding, also a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. She wore a deep rose strapless gown fashioned with a lace jacket, and she carried a bouquet of white blue daisies. Both attendants wore ballerina length gowns.

George Hodges Jr., brother of the groom, was best man. Robert Nelson and Leroy Loeding, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Loeding wore a navy blue net dress and a corsage of baby red roses. The groom's mother wore a pink dress with a corsage of red roses with a white carnation center.

Following the ceremony a reception for the immediate families was held at the bride's home.

The couple plan to make their home in Indiana after a brief honeymoon in Wisconsin.

Timely Tips

There's nothing like a bit of over-the-fence chatter to learn quick tricks for making housekeeping easier. Here are a few that just came our way:

Line your kitchen drawers with plastic fabric. Keeping them clean will be simpler.

Save the paraffin-coated containers from cottage cheese, etc. They come in handy to tote food for family picnics; then throw them away to lessen the load coming home.

Gaily colored foam rubber blocks make wonderful play toys for tots, and they're equally at home in the play pen and bathtub. Should a tossing tantrum come on, no bruises or damage will result—they're safe!

Girls To Attend Baseball Game

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game" is the song the girls of the Heights Catholic club will be singing en route to Chicago September 5.

A bus has been chartered to take the Arlington Heights girls to Cubs Park for a ladies day game between the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Red Legs.

Girls interested in attending the game should meet at Marian Hall, Pine and Frederick sts., at 11:30 p.m.

Nauvoo Grape Festival this Week

Again the friendly citizens of the historic little City of Nauvoo, Ill., are rolling out the welcome mat for the thousands of people who will wend their way to the 16th annual grape festival.

The festival will get under way Friday evening, September 4, with the first presentation of the historic pageant, "Quashquema to Nauvoo," and the "Wedding of the Wine and Cheese."

The next two days will be filled with entertainment, parades, and amusement for young and old. But as before, the visitors will bring along their curiosity and carnival spirit, visit the old buildings and landmarks of the one-time Mormon capital of the world.

A group of Sac and Fox Indians, whose ancestors sold Nauvoo for 200 sacks of corn, will set up an Indian village and take the Indian scene in the pageant.

Oldest Coal Mine

The oldest U.S. operating coal mine is at Ocean, Md., where Consolidated No. 1 Mine of Consolidated Fuel Co., has been producing bituminous coal since 1842.

Favorites for Flavor

By LOIS SEILER

You'll like the taste of the two cookies we are featuring today. One will melt away in your mouth, and the other is crunchy and wholesome.

Mrs. Kenneth W. Wagner of 350 S. Newbury, Arlington Heights, is sharing us with her recipies for Pecan Balls and Oatmeal cookies.

The Pecan Balls are a rich, buttery cookie, wonderful to serve at teas. And Mrs. Wagner always makes these as Christmastime.

The Oatmeal cookies always make a hit with children. Mrs. Wagner's son, Greg, who will be a high school freshman, and daughter, Jan, who will enter junior high, like to find these cookies tucked away in their lunch boxes.

Pecan Balls

1 cup butter or oleo
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 to 2 cups broken pecan meats

Sift the flour and salt together. Mix the ingredients in the order listed, and beat thoroughly.

Form the dough into small, round balls, a little smaller than the size of a walnut. Bake 30 minutes in 275 degree oven, then increase the heat to 325 degrees and bake for 10 minutes longer.

Lift balls from baking sheet and roll in confectioners sugar until heavily coated. Makes four dozen cookies.

Oatmeal Cookies

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
1 cup shortening
2 beaten eggs
3 cups oatmeal
1½ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream sugar and shortening. (Mrs. Wagner uses ½ cup Crisco and ½ cup oleo.) Add beaten eggs and oatmeal.

Sift dry ingredients together and beat into above mixture. Lastly add chopped nutmeats and vanilla.

Drop the dough onto a cookie sheet with a spoon. Bake 15 minutes in 325 degree oven.

(You can freeze this dough, then slice and bake it when you wish.)

The weather was too hot for all members of the Rob Roy ladies golf league winner to pose for the photographer, but three of the girls were available. John Q's Diet of Meat and Dairy Products Is Constantly Increasing

The city cousins are eating mighty well this year. Especially at the meat course. So many steaks, roasts and hamburgers they've never had before. And plenty left over for stew, too.

Total supply of beef for the year may run over 73 pounds per person. That would be one-fifth more than last year. If the supply hits 74 pounds, it will top the old record set 44 years ago.

USDA now figures total meat supplies for the year at 148 pounds per person. That includes beef, veal, pork, lamb and mutton. Pork is calculated at 62 pounds, down 10 pounds, from 1952.

THE AVERAGE consumer gets an egg a day plus 30 more during the year. That's a hundred more than before World War II and 15 more than in 1947-49.

The old-fashioned Sunday chicken dinner comes on two week days now. Average consumption this year will be 29 pounds against only 18 pounds in 1935-39.

Consumption of turkey will average nearly 5.3 pounds per person this year. That is a third more than in 1947-49 and double the 1935-39 figure.

NEXT TO MEATS, dairy products are the big item in the food bill. Consumption of the important dairy products—fluid milk and cream, ice cream, cheese and evaporated and condensed milk—is running about the same as last year. Total milk production is running 4 or 5 percent ahead of last year, but price support operations are putting most of the increase into storage stocks of butter and cheese.

Compared with prewar (1935-39) the per capita consumption of evaporated and condensed milk is up 5 percent, fluid milk and cream up 7 percent, cheese up 42 percent and ice cream up 77 percent! Lots of dinners must begin with beef and end with ice cream.

CONSUMPTION of fresh fruits will total about the same as last year but has slipped 15 percent from 1947-49 and 20 percent from 1935-39. Mr. and Mrs. America now want their fruit canned or frozen. Compared with prewar we will use a third more canned fruit and three times as much canned juices. Consumption of frozen fruits and juices this year will be about double the 1947-49 amount.

Supplies of all major classes of vegetables are equal to or greater than last year. Consumption of canned vegetables has increased even while the use of frozen vegetables has nearly doubled since 1947-49.

How much does it cost the consumer to eat so well? About $27 out of each $100 of disposable personal income. (This means income after personal income taxes are paid.) Of the $27 spent for food, $15 goes for marketing expenses and $13 gets back to the farmer.

Irene Kun Receives Cap

Irene Kun, Buffalo Grove rd., Arlington Heights, was capped by the Presbyterian hospital school of nursing, Chicago, August 28. She is the daughter of Albert Kun.

Miss Kun entered the Presbyterian hospital school of nursing last March. She is a graduate of Arlington Heights high school, class of '52. She received the Presbyterian cap after completing the first six months of the three-year nursing course.

After the capping ceremony the 21 new nurses will wear the full uniform of the school instead of the preclinical uniform. They will spend half of their time in supervised hospital duty and the other half in classroom and laboratory work in the school.

Gradually class hours will be decreased and patient care increased until the final months of their training when hospital duty fills their 40 hour week.

Late in the three-year course the student nurses will go to Hines Veterans Administration hospital and to the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute for specialized training.

To Hold Festival At Lake Bluff Children's Home

The Woman's Board of the Lake Bluff Children's Home have chosen September 18 as the date for their annual "Harvest Home." It will be held on the grounds of the institution at 200 Scranton ave. in the north shore suburb, the only activity of the year held right at the home and the only time during the entire year the home is open to the public.

The nursery, situated in an upstairs wing of beautiful Swift Memorial hospital on the grounds, for the first time will be viewed by the visitors.

The institution, situated near the lake in Lake Bluff, is preparing to celebrate its sixtieth anniversary in 1954. Great progress has been made since that day in 1894 when a deaconess of the Methodist conference began caring for and providing service for needy children.

TODAY LAKE Bluff Children's Home provides care in three phases for children. First is the adoption program where babies are given to devoted couples who anxiously await their first adopted baby. Second, the foster home plan, where kind and generous Christian families take children into their home on a temporary basis until the child's own family home life can be restored if possible. Third, the care at the home where groups of children occupy individual homes on the campus where house parents live with the children so that care as close to a normal home atmosphere is provided for the youngsters.

Television sets are the latest additions to make the care "home like." These were contributed by generous friends of the center.

"Harvest Home" is the annual big day at the home where women come from all over northern Illinois to participate in the activities from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. to benefit the youngsters.

A feature of this year's sale will be French poodles that women in Des Plaines have been making for the sale. On sale in addition to the poodles will be aprons, sweaters, jewelry, trays and baskets. A hat booth that was one of the highlights of last year's sale will be repeated. White elephants, booths of lovely old antiques, handkerchiefs and stuffed toys and bakery goods will be on hand.

Mrs. O. C. Beattie, 311 Carlyle pl., an active worker for Lake Bluff Orphanage will staff one of the many booths at the festival. Luncheon tickets or information may be secured through her in the Arlington Heights area, Cl. 3-5784. Also working on the success of the festival is Mrs. R. H. Barbour, 751 S. Bristol ln., and Mrs. Robert Carncross, 401 N. Pine, Mount Prospect. In Palatine, Mrs. Ralph W. Burdine, 156 E. Sherman will be assisting, and in Barrington Mrs. Elden Simpson, 333 W. Main st.

South Side Catholics Plan Parish Picnic

Officers of the Holy Name Society and the Catholic Woman's club are completing plans for the second annual parish picnic of Our Lady of the Wayside church, Arlington Heights, to be held September 13.

The committees decided, because of construction activity on the parish grounds, that it would be advisable to hold their picnic at a different site this year. The place chosen is the Forest Preserve, Busse Woods, on Elk Grove rd., one mile south of Algonquin rd. The picnic will be held from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. Refreshments will be available, but it is suggested parishioners pack their own lunches.

With the tremendous growth of Arlington Heights and the increase in registered parishioners in Our Lady of the Wayside, this picnic should give newcomers an opportunity to become better acquainted. Upon arrival at the grounds those attending will be given numbered tags to wear. Certain numbers will have duplicates and there will be prizes for those who find their duplicates among the other picnickers.

There will be games for everyone, many of which will be of such nature that entire families can participate. For instance, there will be a repeat of last year's very successful egg contest between husbands and wives. There will be races and games of every variety and a free gift for every child. There also will be a prize for the largest family present.

Catholic Mothers Open School Year

The Mothers' club of St. James Catholic school, Arlington Heights, will hold their first meeting of the school year September 10 at 8:15 p.m. in the school hall.

Des Plaines Chapter, Women Of The Moose

Plans have been started for Christmas in October by Des Plaines chapter 835, Women of the Moose. All co-workers are requested to make donations of gifts for children at Mooseheart October 8.

The young children prefer toys, whereas the teen age youths prefer personal gifts. The aged members of Moosehaven will also be remembered at this time. They prefer personal gifts or any type of gift that one would give to aged members of his family. There are more men residents than women at Moosehaven.

The women of the Moose are asked to have Christmas in October for Moosehaven and Moose heart so that the chairmen can arrange to have these articles shipped in time for the holidays.

The person who accidently picked up a black loose-leaf notebook is asked to leave the book with the bartender at Moose Lodge. The contents of this book are of no value to anyone but the owner.

The next chapter night program will be held September 10, and is publicity night. Chairman Rose Kelso has invited guests from other chapters. Formals have been requested for all officers and escorts. An interesting program and refreshments will complete the evening.

The publicity committee meeting will be held at Moose hall September 2 at 8 p.m. (CM

Presenting The Younger Generation

Brothers

The two blond-haired, blue-eyed boys pictured first are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Newburg, 518 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights.

Young Ross is 7½ years old, and is quite handy with a saw and hammer. He has already made a dog house, as well as a little car for himself. He also enjoys riding his bicycle.

This fall Ross will enter second grade at the new Ridge school. He also attends Sunday school at the Methodist church.

His little brother Robert, 3, likes animals, and one of his favorite activities is riding in his little car. He also enjoys playing in his back yard swimming pool.

The children's grandparents are Mrs. Minda Newburg of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip O. Rife of Park Ridge.

Smiling Lass

The sweet smile on the little girl pictured next belongs to Karen Lee Markstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude D. Markstrom of 318 W. South st., Arlington Heights.

Karen was 20 months old when this picture was taken. She has light brown hair and blue eyes. We were unable to contact Karen's parents for further information.

Typical Boy

Curly-haired Paul Vincent Clore, pictured last, had his first haircut a month ago and now looks quite different and very boyish, his mother says.

This little 4-year-old is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Clore of 1315 W. Elm st., Arlington Heights. He has brown hair and brown eyes.

Paul loves to go barefoot, and likes to play with the older boys in his neighborhood. And he can really hold his own with the older fellas!

He also enjoys playing in his sand box and riding his tricycle. He has an older brother, Larry, who is 10.

The boys visited their grandmother, Mrs. L. Wright, in Ashland, Wis., this summer. Their grandfather, Clarence Clore, lives in Muncie, Ind.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That the ability to gain health, attain success and achieve divine honors, results from an understanding of man's spiritual origin and existence, will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 6. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be MAN.

The Golden Text is from Genesis : 26) "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:

"Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture . . . call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven" (Ps. 100: 3; Matt. 23: 9).

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Man as the offspring of God, as the idea of Spirit, is the immortal evidence that Spirit is harmonious and man eternal . . . Science reveals the glorious possibilities of immortal man, forever unlimited by the mortal senses . . . The eternal Truth destroys what mortals seem to have learned from error, and man's real existence as a child of God comes to light" (pp. 29, 288).

Bartlett Boy Loses

A 10-year-old Bartlett boy had all but the little finger on his left hand amputated after the hand was badly mangled by an exploding dynamite cap. William Humbracht Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Humbracht, S. Bartlett rd., was the victim.

The cap was obtained from the garage of a neighbor, Gust Peterson, who reportedly used them to blow up stumps some time ago. Young Humbracht was poking the cap with a wire when it went off, state police stated. He was rushed to Sherman hospital, Elgin, where the surgery was later performed.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

TOO MANY CENTERS OF INTEREST

The room with too many centers of interest is, in reality, the room without a center — or focal point. Then though it's a multi-purpose room, it always gives the effect of being disorganized and restless. A room is more pleasing, and has better composition, usually, when it's built around one major center of interest.

PLAN A FUNCTIONAL FOCAL POINT

A fireplace with comfortable seating units grouped around it is a natural focal point. Windows that offer pleasant views make excellent room centers. If a room must provide for varied interests, use dual-purpose furniture — a secretary, or chest or cabinet with unit shelves grouped with sofa and chairs to form a main setting.

Same Bus Schedules For Elk Grove Pupils Opening Day of School

DENNIS MALCOLMSON

Buses serving Elk Grove school will run on last year's schedule the first day of school, next Tuesday, according to Dennis Malcolmson, principal. They will follow this schedule until a new one can be worked out taking into consideration where pupils are living. Parents who are not sure of the time or place of the bus routes should bring their children to school the first morning. As in the past, classes will dismiss at noon Tuesday.

School will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with milk available starting the second day. Book rental fee, payable the first week, will be $4.50. Pupils may buy paper and pencils at the school. Student accident insurance is available at $1. First graders who have not been registered previously must have a birth certificate showing them to be six years old on or before December 1, 1953.

The first meeting of the Elk Grove Mother's club will be held next Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. Members of the staff will be introduced as part of the program. (ACMD

Public Grade, Junior High

Arlington Heights public schools will open next week on schedule, Superintendent R. E. Clabaugh announced today. All parents of new pupils are urged to bring their children to their school office for registration before the end of this week.

It is preferred that this be done during the morning. All South school kindergarten through fifth grade registrations will be handled in the older South school building, although the principal's office will be in the new South school after the opening of school. Registration for the Ridge school can be arranged by calling Robert Campbell, principal, at CL 3-6100.

Room and teacher assignments were mailed to all students September 1. Included was a school handbook containing information and routine procedures of the school. Also enclosed, for kindergarten, first, and second grade youngsters is a letter scheduling a conference at the school between the parent and teacher. These conferences have been found very valuable in clearing up routine matters and in preparation for smooth, uninterrupted sessions when classes get under way.

FIRST REGULAR classes for kindergarten youngsters will be September 14; for first and second grade pupils September 10; for grades three through eighth, September 8.

However, in the junior high school, the September 8 class schedule will end at 2:06 p.m. instead of the customary 2:55 p.m. Also, September 9, sixth graders will not attend school; seventh graders will come from 8:20 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. to register for the activity program and eighth graders from 12:30 p.m. to 2:55 p.m. Beginning September 10, the junior high school will convene regularly at 8:20 a.m. and will be dismissed at 2:55 p.m.

All of the week of August 31 has been devoted to a planning conference attended by all members of the staff. This is a regular activity and has been found invaluable in orientating teachers to the school system and in preparing them for a successful beginning.

The time is devoted to general discussions, curriculum planning, individual work, and to explanations of routine procedures. Highlights of the week include a breakfast served by the community orientation committee of the PTA, a tour of the district, and the board of education-staff picnic in a nearby forest preserve.

Freshmen, New Students Begin High School September 8; Balance

High school in the Arlington Heights township district will open officially Tuesday, September 8, when all new students will assemble in the new gym at 8:05 a.m. Freshmen and upperclassmen new to the high school will be welcomed by LeRoy J. Knoeppel, superintendent, and Dave Brant, president of the Student Council.

Following this welcome, H. L. Slichenmyer, administrative assistant, will explain the schedule for the day.

Tuesday, September 8, is known as Freshmen and New Student's day at the Arlington Heights high school, and the entire day's activities are geared to familiarize the new student with high school. A freshman will be given the opportunity to go through his entire schedule in the morning.

AT NOON, lunch will be served in the school cafeteria. Students may purchase their lunch at 25 cents or 35 cents or may bring their lunch and purchase snacks, including milk, if they do not want cafeteria lunches. It is highly recommended, however, that students purchase the school lunch, as it is a well planned lunch and economical in price.

In the afternoon, freshmen will reassemble in the new gym where they will hear from a group of juniors and seniors concerning the activities and opportunities available for them at the school. Talks will be given on Student Council by Dave Brant, Citizenship by Ada Kilbury, Sportsmanship by Dick Winterbauer, and School Spirit by Lenaye Gable.

Following this assembly, the new students will again go through a complete schedule (shortened periods) and be dismissed at 3:10, the regular dismissal time.

Buses will be operating on that day so that students may know what time and where to board their respective buses. The time and routing schedule of the buses appeared in last week's paper.

WEDNESDAY, September 9, all students will report at 8:05 to their home rooms. Former students will report to their last year's home room for their class schedules. If home rooms have been changed, the changes will be posted on the classroom door.

Students are requested to bring their activity fee at this time. The fee this year is $8.50, which includes textbook rental, insurance, subscription to the Cardinal, towel fee, and general fund assessment. Students are admitted to all school assemblies, exclusive of plays, and to all athletic events free of charge.

It is suggested they subscribe and pay for the yearbook at the same time they pay for their activity fees, which makes the total fee $12.50. Subscription to the Heights (yearbook) is optional, but it is highly recommended that all fees be paid at that time.

EXCEPT FOR THOSE students using built-in locks, two combination locks will be needed. These may be purchased at the school's student supply store for $1.10, or from any other source. If purchased elsewhere, the combinations to the locks must be registered or recorded with the attendance secretary. Students are permitted to use key locks if they so desire, however, it is not recommended. Information on the type of gym suits and shoes required, will be given by the instructors.

There will be a complete schedule of all classes Wednesday, September 9, including home room, payment of activity fees, and registering and receiving textbooks for respective classes. All students will report to the boys' gym for an assembly at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday.

It is important for the students to know their current address, date of birth, elementary school district number, and whether or not they live 1½ miles from school and are eligible to apply for bus passes (bus passes not needed first day of school.)

Students should have enough money to purchase locks if they do not have them.

The student body will be given an opportunity to hear the new electric organ at an organ recital to be given in the boys' gymnasium, Friday, September 11, at 9:30 a.m. Both classical and popular music will be offered. The organ is to be used for instructional purposes as well as for entertainment.

Forest View School To Hold Split Sessions; Classes at Airport

Forest View school, S. State rd., will open classes September 8, with split sessions due to the fact that the new addition will not be ready for use for at least another two months.

Grades one through four will attend the morning session from 8 a.m. to 12 noon. Grades five through eight will attend the afternoon session, which begins at 12:30 and ends at 4:30 p.m.

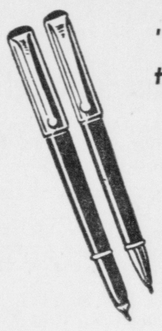

Mrs. Lela McKown is principal and will teach the upper grades with Mrs. Helen Conkling as teacher for the lower grades.

Children residing at the Arlington airport, who live in the Forest View school district will attend classes in two rooms in the southeast wing of the barracks. Grades one through four will meet in one room and grades five through eight will meet in the other. All grades will have full day sessions.

Mrs. Dorothy Mair is principal of the airport school. Classes for the airport students will not begin until September 9, at 9 a.m. (AC

Polio at Minimum In Local Area

Polio cases are at a minimum in the villages served by Paddock Publications, though Northbrook has had five cases reported since the beginning of the season.

There have been only two cases reported for Arlington Heights, both of which occurred earlier this year, and two for Mount Prospect, those occurring during the past two months. Neighboring towns, including Des Plaines, Glenview, Barrington and Northfield have also reported cases, with Des Plaines and Glenview leading the field with six cases each. Two polio cases have been reported in Barrington and one in Northfield.

Latest polio victim in Mount Prospect is Tom Reis, 5, of 410 N. Fairview. He became ill with non-paralytic polio August 7, and is hospitalized at St. Joseph hospital. The other Mount Prospect victim was Teena Gelwecki, 7, 210 Prospect Manor, who became ill with bulbar polio July 30. She is in Evanston hospital.

In Northbrook Priscilla Weber, 28, of 4018 Walter ave., was stricken with non-paralytic polio August 20 and is in Evanston hospital. Paul Tyler, 5, of 1050 Dundee rd., became ill with non-paralytic polio August 5, and is also in Evanston hospital. Scott Decker, 5, of 2536 Oak was stricken with spinal polio July 25, and is being treated at home.

The above information was obtained from Dr. John Hall, County health director.

Red Cross Begins New First Aid Class

A Red Cross standard first aid course will begin September 15 at the Arlington Heights high school, it is announced by Roy D. Day, chairman of the first aid department of Chicago Chapter Red Cross. Robert Tegtmeier, regional Red Cross director for the Northwest area, will be the local instructor.

Classes will meet from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. for nine consecutive Tuesday evenings and are open to all residents of the community. No previous first aid training is required to qualify for the course and there is no charge for the instruction.

The course teaches all the standard Red Cross techniques for first aid, and in addition includes supplementary material on the treatment of atomic injuries. The course is recommended by civil defense authorities, and is the same training given policemen, firemen, school bus drivers and others.

Advance registrations are not required, but those wishing to enroll are asked to appear for the first class session. (B4

Visitors Acclaim Terrace Room

The multiple use terrace room built in the California manner, though designed for northern climates, is the biggest hit in the Readers' Choice house built by William Trude in Arlington Heights, Illinois. The model house now open to the public is featured this month in Better Homes & Gardens which claims the terrace room to be a new departure in houses that are designed for the northern part of the country.

The room can be used for dining, recreation, or play area. Though it has convertible uses, it is felt that it will most generally be used as a dining area. It is adjacent to the kitchen and has a sliding glass partition between to facilitate serving. The exterior walls of the room are Thermopane glass which eliminates the need of storm sash.

But most dramatic of all—the walls themselves slide to open the room to the out of doors. Screens, however, can be closed to keep out the summer insects.

Forest River

Hello again. Am back and rarin' to go. Where's all the news copy of our people and area? Well, if you don't have any, I have. It seems a few years ago a resident of our community made a prediction and now it is finally coming to pass. The Community club has come to the end of their resistance. All the beautiful plans and ideas of a year ago for expansion and improvements are left unfinished. As in the past certain people are allowed to go to the limit with their ideas and then when comes the time to pay the piper, where are they? There is a rumor that some want the Ladies Auxiliary to take charge and another rumor the Fire Department. The Community will be notified of a mass meeting within the month of September and it is hoped that all civic minded residents will attend and express their opinion. The decision of what to do about the Community club must be made within 30 days. What is your opinion:

1. Should the Community club continue as it has and who will support it?

2. Should the ladies of the Auxiliary take charge and revise the ruling to allow all women of the area to be a member?

3. Should the Firemen take over the club, building and debts?

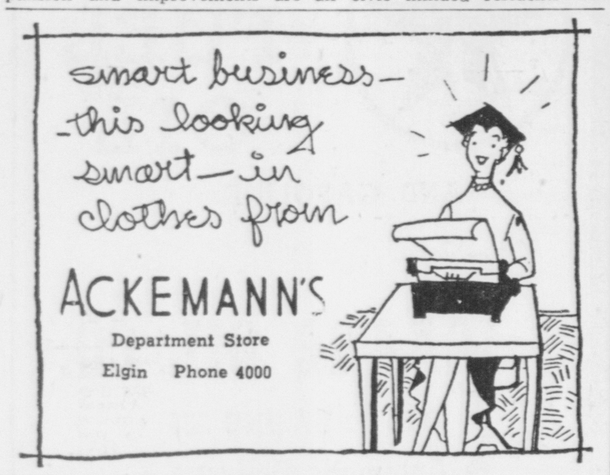

It would be a shame if the men of our community would allow a change of authority to take over their responsibility, especially after the amount of indebtedness that is now on the building. Pride alone, if they have no other reason, should make them see that they must carry on the pledge they made a year ago. Ben Howard alone cannot do all the work that must be done, such as bartending, janitor, maintenance, bookkeeping, etc.

Ma Kleeman celebrated her 69th birthday last Friday by giving a luncheon for friends and family. Among those who attended were Ma's younger sister, Aunt Gussie, her daughter, Edna, and a niece, as well as Mrs. Suhren, Martens, Schauer, Mrs. Olsen of Foundry rd. and Mrs. Remsing Sr. Lu Zeravich was unable to attend.

From all reports John Zeravich is getting along nicely at the Veteran's hospital at Downey. John was involved in an auto accident about two weeks ago and suffered injuries to himself and his young lady friend. The young lady is a patient at St. Francis hospital.

Summer is almost gone so that means we are ready for another session of school. We still do not see any clearance as far as our new building expansion program. The reason for all this uncertainty is just as much a mystery to the school board officials as it is to parents. We have not as yet been given any sign that we can start, but it seems the group who have been instrumental in our delay have had some sort of "Go" signal as they have sold their bonds and are waiting for construction bids to start their building program. Three years ago on October 8 we had a mass meeting at Fred's place and had all sorts of reports, enthusiasm, ideas, remarks, sarcasm, insults, dreams and people. What happened? Where along the line did we fail? Why do the people in District 26 not have the same rights and privileges? We who have made our home in this area for the last 18 or 19 years know that we have always had to fight for any improvement in the school. When we were given to understand that this area did not have the money to allow any fast spending, we were resigned to wait. Now we have a nice revenue and all outside interests keep us so mixed up and tied up that we still cannot go ahead. In the meantime our youngsters grow up, in some instances without the extras they are entitled to. Their children are already, in some cases, ready for schooling and where to send them. The Feehanville school this year already has an enrollment of near 80 and that in only the first five grades. The upper three grades are being sent by bus with tuition paid to the Prospect Heights school. We need more teachers for the children who have to stay at Feehanville but do not have the room or space to put them. We need a bigger kitchen and dining room area, but where can we get it? Our children need an indoor play area for bad weather, but where will we find it? It is high time we get together and try to find out why and also who, where, what, and then get busy.

Parents are asked to please find out whose boys were out late on Monday and Tuesday of last week. This vandalism we have not had for many years. Now we again have a group who delight in riding their bikes and going to the school house and breaking windows. The money used for repairs is your tax money, parents, so check and see if your little angel was in or out the nights last week mentioned as nine windows are being repaired and installed at your expense.

Forest River Young People in Award Winning Band

On August 20 three young people from Forest River, Kay and Bill Phar, and Jim Brewer, left Des Plaines at 6:30 a. m. with the Maine Township High school summer band to play at the state fair in Springfield. The band had been invited to participate in a week-long contest of bands from all over the state.

These youngsters were thrilled to read in the papers of August 22 that Maine had won the Governor's trophy. Robert Kuite is band director.

Winning the trophy more than made up mishaps en route, including three flat tires and two sick students, one of whom was hospitalized in Springfield until Sunday. They returned to the high school at 3:15 a. m. Friday.

The band's next contest appearance will be September 12 when they will march at Riverview in the Mardi Gras parade.

Students begin band rehearsals September 8 and will have intensive drilling on march routines to entertain the crowds at football games.

Wilson Community

Enroll 91

Enrollment jumped again at Wilson school when 91 students registered Tuesday morning, and of course there is the possibility that some newcomers, who were not aware that school started on the first of the month, will come into school the day after Labor day. The largest room is Mr. Carroll's, which includes third, fourth and fifth grades with a total of 32.

Last week it was mentioned that Mr. Parsons and Mr. Carroll took the patrol boys to Riverview. However, at the last minute, Mr. Carroll was unable to go, and Frank Moskal and Mrs. Richard Hurlburt very graciously gave up their day and drove some of the children along with Mr. Parsons.

PTA To Meet

The first meeting of the PTA will be held at the school September 11 at 8 p.m. The president, Mrs. Frank Moskal, extends a special invitation to the new people in the district to come and get acquainted with the school, other parents and the teachers.

Farewell Party

Mrs. Charles Opela entertained at a surprise farewell party in honor of Miss Joan Barry last Friday evening. Fifteen ladies, all members of the village theatre, said goodbye to Miss Barry who is moving to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moskal vacationed last week in and around Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Schroder, Mr. and Mrs. L. Maierhofer and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grzeskiewicz attended the fair at Springfield last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wallor were hosts at a surprise party given in honor of Mr. Wallor's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Leversen, for their tenth wedding anniversary last Sunday. About 30 guests attended and the Leversens received many gifts.

Sympathy

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. William Vosburgh, 601 Larkdale lane, upon the recent death of Mr. Vosburgh's father, William Vosburgh Jr.

At the last Prospect Meadows Women's auxiliary meeting Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Folkerth presented their label saving plan, which has been adopted by the auxiliary as an added means of help toward increasing the treasury. A pamphlet describing premium products will be given each lady in Prospect Meadows by their block captains. Those unable to attend meetings can help by saving various labels.

Mr. Hampe and Mr. Goodwin presented pictures of the Fourth of July parade.

Loraine Brazeau, program chairman, announced the October meeting will feature Eddie Doucette, former TV star, presenting his ideas on cookery. Every woman is asked to bring a guest. A total of 75 women is needed.

September 12 to 15 is the date for Fun fair in Prospect Meadows.

Tickets for the fall dance are now in the hands of block captains. The informal dance is October 17 at Mount Prospect country club. Music will be furnished by Jack Demling's orchestra. Donations are $1.75 each.

Need Scout Workers

Additional work is being done on the boy and girl scout survey for Prospect Meadows. Leaders for these groups are still badly needed, plus adult workers. Nineteen children are interested, but adult volunteer workers are needed.

MORE BEEF, NOT MUCH SPEED FORECAST AT ARLINGTON

MAC SAYS

BY G. A. McELROY

FOOTBALL IS UNDERWAY with the hottest opening day (near 100 degrees) in the history of Illinois prep sports. Most coaches let the boys off pretty easy Monday and hoped for a break in the weather in order to get tough workouts underway. Only fourteen days of practice are on the schedule in Illinois prep football before the opening games may be played and the coaches hate to have their practice plans upset.

Last year the dry September and October left most gridirons hard, bare and dusty after the first few games.

The way it looks right now, most of the gridirons which were so lush with green grass and springy sod the early part of August will be completely burned out and bare before the first games unless schools have plenty of sprinkling and other fields for practice.

NEXT WEEK Paddock Publications will start a series of articles about the prospects of teams in the Northwest Suburban conference for the coming season. When last year's season closed with Palatine gaining their first grid titles in 25 years it was the consensus of coaches and sports writers that Wauconda and Ela-Vernon who finished 1-2 would be the teams to beat in 1953.

Next week we shall give you the low down on their material for a title bid.

PALATINE WILL PLAY at Bensenville again this year. Last season the Pirates opened the league season at Bensenville squeezing by the Bisons, 14-13. With Glenbrook back in the conference schedule, changes would have given Palatine four games and three away.

Inasmuch as they open with Libertyville at home in a non-conference game it would have meant five at home this year and only three in 1954.

To balance the schedule at four home games each year Palatine suggested they play on the Bison field again this season. This game will be the final tilt of the season. The dope would seem to be a stronger Bison team and a weaker Pirate eleven. Time will tell.

WALTER SHERMAN at the new Glenbrook high school will have the question team in the Northwest Conference. Sherman, a former all-league guard under Bill Lutz at the old Northbrook high, made a name for himself in football at Iowa State and a good reputation as a coach at Hinsdale high school.

He has the toughest job possible welding a grid machine from students who attended New Trier, Niles, and Palatine high schools a year ago.

Only regular returning to Glenbrook from Palatine's title winner is Gordon Bruno, a senior halfback. Ken Schmidt, junior tackle, and Jack Raczkowski, end, were the only other squad members at Palatine available to Glenbrook. Very good sophs moving up to Glenbrook from Palatine's undefeated team are Dave Corso, Allen Mackie, and Ray Bucher.

What Glenbrook picks up from Niles and New Trier will determine the caliber of team they field. At any rate Coach Sherman has over 50 boys out to get those coveted first string assignments.

Just how much early instruction will pay off in baseball and football at Arlington Heights high school a few years hence is the question . . .

The Height Legion team was Cook County runner-up, a Little League baseball program encompassing almost 200 boys was started, and dozens of boys have turned out for the park district's midget football program . . .

Prep grid coaches will attend rules interpretation meetings September 9 at Elgin and September 10 at Waukegan.

Merchants Down Heights Giants In Little League

The Mount Prospect Merchants Little League team defeated the first place Arlington Giants 15-2, Saturday, August 29, at the Merchants' field.

Soenksen, Merchants pitcher, threw a remarkable ball game. Only one hit was made off him. The only other fair ball was a bunt which followed the hit and was turned into a double play.

Aside from these two plays there was not another ball hit off of his pitching as he mowed the Giants down with 15 strikeouts out of a possible 18. His only weakness was wildness as he issued 12 walks, permitting the Giants two runs.

ON THE Merchants side the offensive heriocs were many. Thill with two homers and a double out of three at bats led his team. Jobst with two triples and a single and F. Boedeker and Peterson with 2 for 3 were close behind.

The Mercants are desirous of meeting any other Arlington team or any Arlington All-Star team of all 12 year olds at either Recereation Park or Mount Prospect if this can be arranged.

Redwings Win In Twelfth, 3-2

Two singles, a walk and another single paid off for the Arlington Redwings baseball team at Recreation park Sunday for a 12-inning, 3-2 victory over Olympic Savings of Chicago.

Hits by Paul Lange and Lloyd, followed by a walk to Bob Spinks, set the stage for Hal Stange in the last of the twelfth, He smacked a single and the game was over.

This Sunday afternoon the Redwings play host to Glenview naval air station. Game time is 3 p.m.

OLYMPIC Savings drew first blood in the second inning on an error, hit and long fly to left. The visitors added another score in the fifth on an error and two hits, and the way Zitek was setting the locals down it looked like a shut out.

But in the eighth inning the Redwings came to life and tied the score.

Connie Hernbrott doubled. Elmer Kirchhoff batted for Morrison and singled, scoring Hernbrott. Lloyd singled, moving Kirchhoff to second. Bob Spinks then singled, scoring Kirchhoff. A double play going from short to home to third to second to third ended the activity.

FROM THEN on the Redwings threatened but could get nowhere. They left two men on base in the ninth on hits by Art Scheiwe and Bill Stretton. Lloyd singled in the tenth. Hits by Stange and Willie were wasted in the eleventh. Then came the winning twelfth.

Stretton fanned 13 batters and walked four. Double plays in the fifth and tenth innings helped the Redwing cause.

Danes' Grand Slam Homer Wins Final For Title Tie In Arlington Little League

By the Dad of A Little Leaguer

Even a Hollywood script writer who lies awake nights dreaming up climaxes couldn't have come up with a more spectacular finish for the Arlington Heights Little League's inaugural season.

With one out and his team losing, 2-0, in the last inning of the final game, Kent Danes clouted a grand-slam home run to give the Yankees a story book 4-2 victory over the Giants at Recreation Park last Saturday.

THUS, THE Yankees and Giants, front-runners almost all season, wound up with identical records of 8-2. Last Wednesday night's thriller was a replay of a 4-4 tie, which gives you an idea of how evenly matched the two outfits are.

Instead of declaring both teams co-champions, league officials decided on a special playoff game for Sept. 12, 1:30 p.m., at Recreation Park.

RIGHTHANDER Tom Taylor and his Giant teammates were in complete charge until young Danes came through with the wallop that turned defeat into victory for the Yankees.

Taylor had given up but three hits and his control almost perfect. Then, the husky youth weakened after striking out Bill Harrington. Yankee center fielder, and walked three straight batters—King Stablein, Bill Burfeind and Bob Hutchinson.

In this crurcial spot, Taylor was replaced by First Baseman Bob Bennett. Danes drove Bennet's third pitch deep into left-center for a home run as Yankee fans among the large crowd went wild.

THE VICTORY was a personal triumph for Dennis Schumacher, the Yankees' brilliant little southpaw who had performed briefly for the Giants early in the season.

Dennis was at his best. He yielded three hits, struck out 11 and walked but two. He also hit a single, with Hutchinson getting the Yankees' other two blows.

The sudden defeat came as a shock to the Giant players and their coaches, of course, particularly Tom Taylor who had backed up his fine pitching with two hits at the plate.

IN THE ONLY other game last week, the Dodgers escaped the cellar and pushed the Red Sox into it with a convincing 7-1 decision at Recreation Park.

The Dodgers collected only five hits—by Jack Mutti, Pitcher Don Snell, Dick Nickelsen, Gary Snell and Joe Oergler—but they bunched them and took advantage of six bases on balls

Don Snell gave the Red Sox three hits and whiffed nine. Jim Kennedy and Bill Ferry shared the mound duties for the losers.

Midget Footballers To Report For First Practice Saturday

Midget football, instruction in fundamentals sponsored by the Arlington Heights park district, took another step forward this week with the announcement of the first practice this Saturday, September 5.

The park district has long felt its recreation activities should not be restricted to summer alone, plus the skating rink in the winter, and is this year initiating football instruction to boys ten years old through the eighth grade.

A get-together meeting has been scheduled for Saturday morning at 9:30 in the fieldhouse at Recreation park with films of the Rams-All-Star football game in 1952 slated to be shown. General instructions on the program will be given.

IN THE AFTERNOON, starting at 1 p.m., the first practice will be held on the high school practice field. Boys are asked to report in whatever equipment they have, with blue jeans, T-shirt and sweat shirt the accepted dress.

The park district has some equipment, but not enough to go around in this first year of operation. Boys who have their own pads, helmets, etc., are asked to wear them.

SIXTY BOYS have signed for the program thus far, with more registration blanks still available. Sign-ups can be made Saturday morning at the fieldhouse by those boys failing to register the past two Saturdays.

In case the weather is too hot Saturday for workouts, Coach "Bus" Ormsbee will lead a discussion of football rules and give demonstrations of techniques of the gridiron sport.

Gareiss Photo

Dr. George F. Smith, new team physician at Arlington Heights high school, inspects Wayne Mueller as football candidates reported for action this week. Fifty boys reported to varsity coach "Bus" Ormsbee the first day of practice with plenty of poundage running onto the gridiron from players' backs. In the background can be seen athletic director Wally Grace leaning over as he discusses frosh football plans with yearling mentor Curtis Larsen.

Outlook Brightest In Four Years With Opener Two Weeks Away

"More beef, not much speed. More desire, may have power."

Thus spoke varsity football coach "Bus" Ormsbee at Arlington Heights high school where 48 boys reported for initial practice sessions Monday morning.

Thirteen lettermen are back for the Cardinals giving the local high school the brightest prospects of the past four years.

LAST YEAR at this time the situation was different. Only about 30 boys had shown up. There wasn't much weight and the will to play football had a rough time offsetting the lack of ability on a quantity basis.

The boys reporting Monday had plenty of pep in spite of the temperature. Two practices per day are planned by Coach Ormsbee, including Saturday and Monday, Labor day.

BACKFIELD lettermen at Arlington include Dick Winterbauer, Don Hoth, Roger Thomas, Carroll Werner, Bob Ellis, Dick Hauff. Werner is already plagued with a sprained ankle, however.

Veterans back in the line include Dave Brant at tackle, Bill Scheaffer and John Milnamow at guard, Mike Deschner as linebacker, and Charles Verret, Bob Dotts and Ken Lemke at end.

IN ADDITION to the backfield lettermen, Coach Ormsbee is counting heavily on Denny Maher and Wayne Brumm, up from the sophs of last year.

High hopes from some of the new linemen include Wayne Mueller at end, Bruce Wilkerson and Tom Wagner at tackles, Tom Hanson and Ron Dritlein at guards, and Jim Knaus at center.

SQUAD LOSSES include three boys, all heavies, who were eliminated before practice started. Bob Dahlquist, 190-pound lineman, had a shoulder operation during the summer and will not be able to compete.

Lowell Dobbins, 200 pound sophomore center last year, did not pass his physical this fall. Dave Lynk, 245 pound center man on defense, has a sore hip not caused in practice.

Opening game is at Barrington September 19 with West Suburban league contests opening a week later. Downers Grove will play at Arlington Heights Friday night, September 25, in the home opener. Varsity managers this year are Don Hutchinson and Joe Campbell. Assisting Coach Ormsbee is Bill Beckman, who works with the linemen.

FOR THE SOPHS John Ligon and Dick Mudge are handling the reigns. They reported a turnout of only 34 boys Monday, a drop from last year. Practices are being held sandwiched in between teachers' workshops but double duty is slated for Saturday and Monday, Labor day.

The boys are smaller than last season, when they were extra large. First eleven will possibly be strong, but there won't be much depth according to advance indications.

Frosh-soph manager is Pete Swanson.

CURTIS LARSEN and Carl Nelson, the Scandinavian duo mentoring the frosh, also report a small turnout this year, 35, the smallest in several years. In size, however, the boys are about the same as in '52.

Determination and willingness to learn are strong among the yearlings as they have been going through the fundamentals. The coaches were looking for centers and quarterbacks early this week with pads, driving and blocking scheduled for the end of the week.

Football Season Ticket Sale On At Arlington Hts.

Sale of season football tickets at Arlington Heights high school is slated to begin Friday, September 4, with four home games on the docket. Tickets can be purchased at both the high school office and at Millay's newsstand in downtown Arlington Heights.

"We want to make it convenient," said athletic director Wally Grace, "for commuters, businessmen and shoppers to purchase their reserved seats for the entire season. They can do it in downtown Arlington Heights by stopping at Millay's any time beginning Friday morning."

TICKET PRICES are $4.00 for the same reserved seat at all four home games. Single game seats are $1.10. The season ducat represents a saving of 40 cents over the single game reserved seat prices.

Many businessmen, shoppers and farmers are unable to get out for the frosh-soph preliminary Friday nights, and use the reserved seat season ticket as insurance of a good seat for all varsity contests.

ON THE HOME schedule for the Cardinals this year are Downers Grove September 25, LaGrange October 3, Riverside-Brookfield October 16 and Hinsdale October 30. The LaGrange game in a Saturday afternoon affair.

Traveling games for the local eleven are Barrington September 19, Glenbard October 10, York October 24 and Maine November 6.

General admission for the games will be 80c for adults, 50c for children. In other words, the season reserved seat tickets are just 20c per game more for the same location at all contests.

Evening game times are 6:15 and 8:00.

Airedale Dog Show Sept. 13 At Palatine

Palatine's first dog show is scheduled for Sunday, September 13, at the country home of Dr. Justin Fleischmann, west of the village, when the Airedale Terrier club of Illinois sponsors a sanction match under the rules of the American kennel club. No championship points will be awarded but ribbons and trophies will be given in many classes.

Unusual aspect of this match is the class for untrimmed dogs and bitches for the benefit of those Airedale fanciers who don't have their dog properly groomed for the regular competitions but do wish to enter them in the show.

Dogs will be registered at 1 p.m. Sunday, September 13, with judging to start at 2 p.m. All that is necessary for registration is name of sire and dam, plus age of dog.

DIRECTIONS on how to reach the show were given this week by Dr. Fleischmann. Dog lovers can drive west from Palatine on Palatine rd., to Ela rd., then turn south for about a quarter mile. Admission to the show will be a 50c donation with children under twelve admitted free. Registration for each dog will be 50c.

Classes will include puppy, novice, open, best in match, veterans and a parade of champions. In this last class a few of the top winning Airedales will be paraded by their owners.

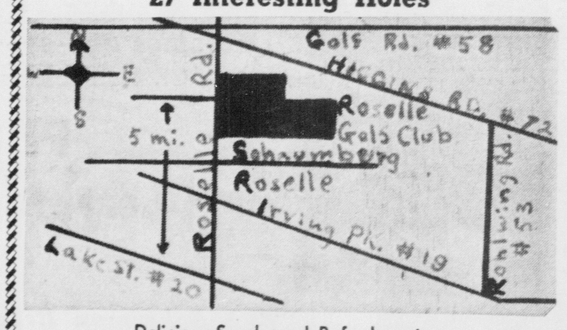

More information regarding the show can be gained by calling Palatine 440.

Mt. Prospect Merchants Whip Gurnee, To Meet Again Sunday

Mt. Prospect Merchants Little League team defeated Gurnee, 3-0, Sunday, August 30.

For the second day in a row a Merchant pitcher threw a one-hit game. Peterson, Merchants' southpaw hurler, went the entire game with only two balls hit out of the infield.

Gurley, Gurnee second baseman, drove out a hit in the second inning. Then in the sixth he again drove a ball into right field but Donny Boedeker made a nice catch to retire him.

PETERSON struck out six and walked three. A sparkling performance in the infield by Jobst, Thill, Boedeker and Soenkson, and Erber's solid catching and throwing aided Peterson's shut-out pitching.

Fred and Don Boedeker, with two hits apiece, led the Merchants' offense.

Next Sunday, September 6, Gurnee again will travel to Mt. Prospect to attempt to arrange this defeat. Game time is 2:00 p. m. at School and Busse sts.

Stock Car Drivers Gird For Final Racing Month

Only one month remains on the Soldier Field stock car racing schedule for this season and the hue and cry goes up from the pits which fill the north end of the lake front stadium to stop Pistone and Netzel, in the full program of nine events listed each race night

These two residents of Chicago's near northwest side are at the top of the Soldier Field point standings with Tom Pistone leading Kenny Netzel in points, although the latter leads in feature race victories by the narrow margin of 9 to 8. Between them they have captured more main events than the rest of the drivers combined and the battle for the Soldier Field 1953 championship appears to lie between these two.

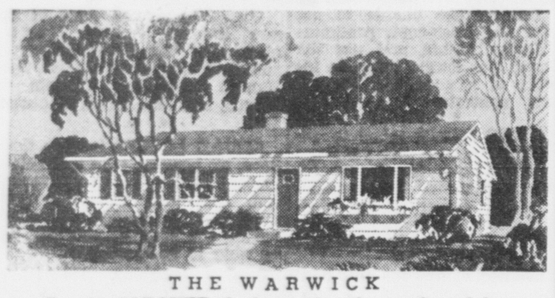

The coming Labor Day week end promises to be one of the best in Soldier Field auto racing history. Saturday night the hot rods return to the lake front stadium with the highly competitive Interstate championship between the Mutual Racing Ass'n. of Indiana and the favorites of the Hurricane Racing Ass'n. of Illinois.

Then Sunday night a super-duper stock car program of twelve events will be run. Double features leading into a super feature, woman's and men's amateur races, a mystery race and the demolition races, make up an exciting evening.

Rules Interpetation Meetings Next Week

Interpreting football rules at the Waukegan meeting Thursday, September 10, will be Milt Sprunger of the IHSA office. Roy Quant will headline the program at Elgin September 9. Quant will also be in charge at the Chicago meeting September 8 at the Bismark hotel, starting at 8 p.m.

Arlington Honors Legion Baseball Squad Members

"Never mind the errors, they're made by the best of them," stated Don Unferth, assistant farm director of the Chicago White Sox, "but profit by your mistakes and aim for the tops in baseball." Thus spoke Unferth Monday night at the annual dinner honoring Arlington Heights Legion baseball team members, their dads and Legion officials at St. Peter Lutheran activity building.

Unferth recalled plenty of errors in crucial world series of past years, of men rated tops at their position but still committing embarassing plays that cost world titles. He stressed the need on the part of boys and fans, alike, to forget the errors and pull for the players to make the long, tough grade to the majors.

OTHER SPEAKERS on the program recalled the history of Legion baseball in the ninth district and Cook county, praising Arlington's advantages that make the local team one of th mainstays in the Legion baseball program.

C. O. Michaelson, ninth district baseball chairman, called the Heights diamond the best in the country, and cooperation by the local newspaper second to none.

Walt Wessman, Cook county director of Legion baseball, gave a factual report on progress of the Legion ball program throughout the county, noting the extensive organization of the fifth and ninth districts, particularly.

ENTERTAINMENT was provided early in the program by Mr. and Mrs. William Swanson of Arlington Heights, who performed tricks of magic. Other speakers included Don Giese, commander of Merle Guild post 208, Jim Millay, team manger and contact between the post and the team, Lloyd Meyer, coach of the team, and Herb Carl, representative of local co-sponsor George C. Poole, Inc.

Surprise of the evening was the piano playing of Wally Grace, Arlington Heights high school athletic director, as background music for the magician. To Wally's right was Harold Lester, new basketball and baseball coach at the local high school. Dennis Malcolmson served as master of ceremonies. Baseball movies followed the extensive program. Also honored were two of the boys making Boys State this past year.

5 of 8 Paddock Golf Entrants End In First

Five entrants in Paddock Publications golf tournament, leaders August 1 in their own league, continued in top position the rest of the season, just finished.

They included Roselle Bakery of the Roselle league, Pine's Motel of Arlington Heights league, Steging's of Bensenville league, Stefanik Food of St. James league, and Armours of Rob Roy country club league. But in Mount Prospect, Paddock entrant Busse Motors finished in sixth place in the Wednesday division, and Kruse Schlitz rated second in the Tuesday half.

Webber Paint of Rob Roy league, which tied for third in the Paddock meet, finished in a tie for third in its own league.

Two Day Horse Event at Hinsdale This Week End

A spectacular equestrian event, thrilling for riders and spectators alike, to which the public is welcome, will be held Saturday and Sunday September 5 and 6, at Oak Brook steeplechase course on Cass ave. between 31st and 22nd sts. Northwest of Hinsdale.

It is the midwest horse society's competition with 50 or more riders of both sexes vying for ribbons and cups. Saturday there will be cross country competition over the famous course used to train the 1948 Olympic team modestly described "as continental competitions require." Sunday there will be breathtaking 'show" or "stadium" jumping.

Bowlers Start New Season 'Midst Heat Wave

Bowling season started Monday of this week in spite of the heat, with plenty of grumbling on the part of keglers. Lateness of Labor day, however, forced the early starts in order to finish the season on schedule next April.

As before, bowling scores at Arlington Heights Bowling Lanes and Mount Prospect Bowling Lanes will be picked up Monday afternoon, with Monday night scores slated to be picked up at the alleys Tuesday. All scores at Hi-Way Recreation, Palatine, will be picked up at 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Scores at Wheeling will be picked up at the alleys Tuesday afternoons.

At Bensenville and Wood Dale scores must be received by the publishers by Tuesday, either direct to the Arlington Heights office or through the regular news collection points in the various towns along Irving Park rd.

O'Day Realtors Cop First In Tuesday Play

We can well understand why the George O'Day Realtors lost to the champions of the Wednesday night division of the Mount Prospect twilight golf league.

For these courageous golfers played their heads off to come from behind and win the elusive championship of the Tuesday division.

The O'Day team passed Henry Kruse's Schlitzers by a stunning eight point victory over the Mount Prospect Lions club team.

Members of the O'Day team are: Fred Welsh, George O'Day, Carl Ladendorf and Walter Kadlec. Special notice should be given to Carl Ladendorf, who joined the O'Day team in the middle of the season. All Carl did was to win his last five matches.

IN SECOND place, with a five point victory to hold them there, is the Henry Kruse Schlitz team.

In third place, by the skin of their teeth, is the Commissioner William Busse team. Going into the final night in sixth place, nobody would have given a nickel for the Commissioner's boys. But they played fine golf, and headed by Bill Greiling they won an eight point victory to give them third spot.

Mount Prospect Electric Co., former tenants of third would have given their clubs for one single point. They won only two and the Commissioner Busse team lead them to the finish by 13/30 of a point.

THE LAST birdies of the season were scored by Dick Meyers, Gordon Petersen, Fred Welsh and Dick Carney.

Final standings:

George O'Day Realtors	88 5/6
Henry Kruse's Schlitz	87 1/2
Comm. William Busse	83 5/6
Mt. Prospect Electric	83 2/5
Golden's Food Shop	81 1/2
Mt. Prospect Jewelers	80
Wille Lumber and Fuel	79
Keefer's Pharmacy	78 3/5
Winkelman's Shell Service	75 1/6
Van's	74 5/6
K. R. Whitton Realtors	72 5/6

Amvets Lose to Tracto-Motive Team

Although they were defeated, members of the Amvets and their families had a good time sitting in the shade and enjoying the breezes while their team of Philip Carpenter post 66 played against Tracto-Motive at the Amvet's diamond in Wheeling last Sunday afternoon. The score was 12-7.

Refreshments were served after the game.

Bowersox and Eakins To Leave for Carthage

Arlington's leading basketball scorers last year, Tom Bowersox and John Eakins, aim to continue playing basketball together. They have both enrolled at Carthage college and will leave Sunday for freshman week at the college starting Monday.

Both boys were three sport men at Arlington, taking major "A's" in five sports between them.

Forty Report at Bensenville High

Forty boys reported to football coach Tom Meneguin Monday at Bensenville high school with workouts running 9-12 throughout this week. More boys are expected to report when school opens next week, though most of them will be freshmen.

The squad will be divided at that time with newly hired Paul Henry handling the yearlings. Assisting Meneguin with the varsity is Frank Novatny.

Opening game for the Bisons is at home against Leyden JVs Saturday night, September 19. The frosh-sophs will open competition a week later.

Illini Strong At Guard Position

No where in the line is Coach Ray Eliot's 1953 University of Illinois football team as well fortified with veterans as it is at guard. Seven lettermen are bidding for the two starting berths, and any two of the seven could get the assignments.

Coach Eliot and his aides haven't settled on a starter at either of the guard spots. When drills open September 2 they will concentrate attention on Walter Vernasco, Mishawaka, Ind.; Jan Smid, River Grove (Leyden), John Bauer, Benton; Don "Bucky" Tate, New Castle, Pa.; Don Ernst, Chicago (Foreman); Paul Luhrsen, Elmhurst (York); and Bob Bishop, Bridgeport (Salem).

BISHOP, 5-11, 195- pound senior, uses speed to overcome a disadvantage in weight. He was used on both offense and defense during the 1952 season, and that "two way" experience will be valuable under 1953 limited substitution rules.

Luhrsen's experience at Illinois has been at center. He played offensive center behind dependable Dan Sabino last season, but also has gained reputation as a rugged defensive linebacker. He is a 6-2, 210-pound senior.

ERNST WON a starting position at defensive guard as sophomore, and continued as a regular during the 1952 season. He was an offensive center in high school, so should adjust rapidly to "one-platoon" football. He is 6-0, weights 192.

Conversion of Tate from tackle to guard began during spring drills, and progressed rapidly. Although he was a good tackle, winning more honors in his first two seasons than most linemen receive in a lifetime, it was felt that his speed and blocking potential could better be used at guard. The 6-0, 200-pounder rates high in 1953 plans.

Bauer should be a good "two way" guard. Most of his university experience has been on offense, yet his 235 pounds on a 6-4 frame equip him well for anchoring the center of the line on defense. He has seen considerable action during his three years as a "Fighting Illini" and may be "surprise" of 1953.

SMID IS another "small" lineman, standing 5-11 and weighing 196 pounds. He thrives on contact, and makes up for lack of size with aggressiveness and determination. He was a defensive regular during last half of 1952.

Vernasco, brother of Joe, fine end of Illinois' 1951 Big Ten champions, won a starting berth as offensive guard during 1952 season. Just a junior, he played defensive end as a freshman, so should adjust to play under new limited substitution rules. A 5-11, 204-pounder, he excels at blocking.

WITH THAT array of experienced talent, sophomores can hardly hope to break into the starting lineup. However, several newcomers will make bids for berths on the 1953 traveling team.

Sophomores who have been invited to participate in drills this fall include: George Walsh, 5-11, 180-pounder from Ivesdale (Atwood); Joe Grieshop, 6-0, 215 pounds, Harvard; Jim Calder, 6-0, 200-pounds, Chicago (Fenger); Jerry Markbreit, 5-10½, 193 pounds, Chicago (Hyde Park); and Randall Rayborn, 6-0, 187 pounds, Rushville.

Pros. Hts. Little League Ends; Plan banquet

The first year of Little League competition in Prospect Heights ended last week with the Cardinals in undisputed possession of first place. The Red Caps found it unnecessary to exert themselves, winning by default when the White Sox were unable to field a team.

Because of the large number of boys away on vacation, it was decided to cut the schedule short and consider the season complete as of last week. The Cards had been out in front since the start of the season and had dropped only one game, a 6 to 5 upset at the hands of the Red Sox.

In the two other games played during the final week, the Red Sox beat the Braves, 9 to 7, and the Phillies took the Cubs by a 4-1 score.

ONE OTHER item remains on the Little League agenda, the father and son banquet to be held September 12 at Simson's restaurant. It is hoped all players and their dads will be in attendance to discuss the season just passed and listen to an outline of plans for next year.

Movies of some of the games, including the all-star game, will be shown, and Jack Reinsma and Dr. Martin Meisenheimer, who did the camera work, have caught some excellent action shots. Officers for next year's Little League committee will be installed. There will also be a presentation of a trophy to the pennant winners. Festivities will start at 6 p.m.

Final standings of the Prospect Heights Little League:

	W	L
Cardinals	10	1
Red Sox	7	4
White Sox	5	6

Fatherhood 'As Such' No Longer Deferment

Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service, has called attention to the fact that fatherhood, as such, will no longer be grounds for deferment, beginning August 25.

The president's executive order of July 11, 1953 provided, Colonel Armstrong reminded, that men deferred as fathers before August 25, 1953 will continue to be deferred, but beginning August 25 registrants not now deferred as fathers, cannot use fatherhood as a basis for attaining deferment unless they can show that their induction would result in extreme hardship and privation to their dependents.

The recent amendment of Selective Service regulations specifically requires the filing prior to 25 August 1953 by a registrant with a dependency claim involving a child, of appropriate evidence such as a copy of a birth record or a physician's certificate of pregnancy, depending upon whether the child is born or not yet born.

Chest X-Rays Reveal Early Cases of TB

Findings of a chest X-ray survey that covered every high school, public and parochial, in suburban Cook county last year is presented in the August-September issue of The Challenge published by the Tuberculosis Institute.

The report was prepared by Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, executive director of the Suburban Cook county tuberculosis sanitarium district. The district and the institute, the Christmas seal agency, carried out the high school survey as part of their county wide search for unsuspected cases of tuberculosis.

Of 31,156 pupils and school personnel X-rayed, four active cases of TB, all students, were found. They have been placed in the district's sanitarium.

The films of 27 others showed some possible evidence of tuberculosis. Nineteen live in the district's jurisdiction and are being watched, with chest X-rays and sputum tests, by the district's medical staff. The eight others, who live outside the district, have been referred to their local health authorities.

In addition to the active and suspected cases of tuberculosis, the films revealed 23 instances of other conditions requiring medical attention.

Prepare For Multiflora Rose Now

By far the best results have been found with multiflora rose hedges when the seedlings were fall planted after the seed bed was prepared in August or September.

Usually, the farmer has some time at this period when he can plow a strip where he wants a rose fence, disc it down and be ready to set in his seedlings after the middle of October. When planted in the fall his seedling roots will be well set by winter rains and gain a couple of months growth over the spring planted seedlings.

MULTIFLORA rose starts early growth in the spring and this several weeks head start will allow the seedlings to get ahead of the weeds that come up later.

Although most of our late winters have been mild it is good insurance to mulch the fall planted rose heavily with ground corn cobs or manure. A severe winter may cause the plants to heave. We know of several rose plantings last year that came through the winter in fine shape without mulching and are now far ahead of spring planted seedlings. However, you can't depend on a mild winter this year so be safe and mulch.

ANOTHER reason why fall planting should be considered is the availability of plants. In the past there have been several seasons when all seedlings were sold out in the spring. The early demand this year indicates the possibility of another sell-out.

The Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs is urging the planting of multiflora rose as the one most practical means of saving our song birds and wildlife. Several clubs are purchasing plants and giving them to farmers in their area. Others are providing the services of a planting machine which will put thousands in the ground where hand planting will put in dozens.

Young Lambs May Get Lockjaw on Farms

Farmers raising young lambs should be on the lookout for lockjaw and white muscle disease.

One Whiteside county farmer wrote the University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine after a young lamb had died six days after taking sick. Another died in 10 days. Typical symptom in both cases was stiffness and eventual paralysis.

If you find lambs in that condition in your own flock, call your local veterinarian immediately, advises L. E. Boley, head of the department of clinical medicine. He will be able to diagnose the trouble.

There is always the possibility of lockjaw, Boley says. And there have been several cases of white muscle disease in the clinic at Urbana this spring. The symptoms suggest that this condition is due to a vitamin E deficiency, and perhaps to deficiencies in other vitamins.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier, left, shows Governor William G. Stratton a copy of the charter for Morris, the governor's home town, which was incorporated 100 years ago. The original of the charter is on file in the Archive division of the Illinois state library and the reproduction was on display at the library's exhibit at the Illinois state fair. The town of Morris actually came into existence several years earlier than 1853, but it was not formally incorporated until that year.

Pasture Renovation Meet Well Attended

The directors of the North Cook county soil conservation district were pleased to see the large crowd at the pasture demonstration held August 25th on the farm operated by Clarence Wilkening.

Emil Hattendorf, chairman of the district, says the farmers are turning out in larger numbers each year, to learn how permanent pastures can be made more profitable.

FIRST PASTURE renovated this way has paid out more than three times as much after renovating than before. It returned $96.26 in 1953 up to July 12th and only $37.80 for the whole year before renovating.

A contour line was staked out by Maurice Umbdenstock. Soil Conservationist to show how the land is worked on the contour and adjustments made to make contouring practical.

FAR ADVISER MEES pointed out the benefits derived by applying a complete fertilizer, such as 10-10-10 for pasture application. This is applied at the rate of 200 lbs. per acre to insure an even and rapid start.

He also pointed out a brillion seeder,as was used, could reduce the amount of seed needed for a good stand. However, using a cultipacker will also make a firm seed bed, which is best for germination.

The seeding mixture used on this picture was 1 bushel wheat per acre, 4 pounds timothy per acre, 7-8 pounds brome grass per acre. In the early spring legumes consisting of 4 pounds New York imperial strain bird's foot trefoil per acre and 4 lbs. red clover will be seeded.

THE PEOPLE saw four tractors in use most of the time preparing the seed bed. The pasture was ripped up with a field cultivator and worked with a plow, disc and a subsoiler. The subsoiler was used on part of the pasture to see what improvement it makes in reducing erosion and increasing internal drainage.

Equipment used was furnished by Harvey Bierman, Allis Chalmers dealer on Barrington road. The district is always willing to cooperate with equipment dealers in the territory.

Machine Shelter Offers Wide Doors On Farms

Good farm machinery buildings promote the servicability that you look for in modern complex equipment. They allow easy access for moving both large and small pieces in and out, and they include facilities for servicing either in the building or near by, says Cook county farm adviser Carl F. Mees.

Machine sheds should be convenient to the service area of the farmstead and to driveways and lanes leading to fields. Locating them north or west of the service area will give some winter wind shelter.

WHEN YOU choose your plan for farm machinery housing, consider both space requirements and schedule of usage for each piece of machinery, Mees suggests. Allow space for future expansion.

Midwest plan No. 74145 is typical of the side opening type of machinery shelter. The doors should face the service yard or a wide lane leading to the fields.

THIS PLAN provides one drive-through section for convenience in getting larger machines out of the building. The design is detailed for concrete block construction. Is uses 28-foot clear-spantrusses.

You can get this farm machinery housing plan at your county farm adviser's office. For more information ask him for a copy of Circular 702, "Farm Machinery Housing."

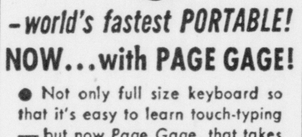

Record Cow

A registered Guernsey cow, Norgert's General's Dewdrop, owned by Est. N. F. McNaught, Elgin, put 11,735 pounds of milk and 639 pounds of butter fat into the country's breadbasket. "Dewdrop" was a junior three year-old and was milked two times daily for 365 days.

The sire of "Dewdrop" is Norgert's Gem General. Fifty-three sons and daughters of this bull are listed in the Performance Register of The American Guernsey cattle club.

Broilers Don't Appreciate The Flavored Feed

Broilers may enjoy certain flavors in their feed, but University of Illinois tests with a wide variety of flavors did not not show that they had any advantage in increasing the growth.

Hans Fisher, of the animal nutrition division, has reported on experiments in which a good broiler ration was supplemented with such varied flavors as wintergreen, vanilla, maple, apple, honey, pepper, walnut, coconut, caramel, coumarin, butyric acid and geranoil and fed to battery-raised birds.

TWO FLAVORS showing some promise of increasing feed consumption and growth were tried two more times, but still with negative results.

Finally a commercial flavor mixture containing many of these flavors was tried. One group of birds was fed only the standard ration, a second was fed only the flavored ration and the third had free choice of either. Again no advantage could be found for flavoring the feed.

A new plan giving easy instructions for the construction of a milk house that meets most local Grade "A" milk recommendations may be obtained free from Farm Service Bureau, Suite 2039, 111 West Washington st., Chicago 2. Any farmer can build this structure at low cost.

Two Lamb Crops a Year Not Practical

Out-of-season breeding to double the lamb crop without increasing the number of ewes holds much interest for Illinois sheep breeders.

However, U. S. Garrigus, head of the sheep division at the Illinois college of agriculture, believes it would be more profitable to produce more and better sheep with our present knowledge.

So far none of the efforts to get two lamb crops a year from each ewe have been very successful.

Neumann to Head Beef Cattle Division

A. L. Neumann, associate professor of animal science on the University of Illinois college of agriculture staff, has been named to head the beef cattle division within the department of animal science. The appointment was made by Dr. L. E. Card, animal science head.

Neumann fills the position left vacant by the untimely death of Professor R. R. Snapp last month. A native of Granite, Okla., he received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Oklahoma A. & M. in 1938 and '39 and his Ph. D. from the University of Illinois in 1949.

After serving two years as assistant professor of animal husbandry at the University of Arkansas, Neumann joined the University of Illinois staff in 1950 as associate professor of animal science. In this position he worked closely with the late Professor Snapp and became widely known throughout the state for his work in beef cattle feeding and management.

Grass Juices Cause No Change in Poultry Breeder Rations

Feeding fresh grass juices to confined breeding hens had no effect on hatchability in recent University of Illinois tests. Neither did it improve the growth of the chicks significantly.

John Snyder, poultry researcher, found that season affected chick growth more than feeding these juices to the hens. Chicks grew most rapidly in spring and most slowly in summer.

He used four-week weights to check growth. Chicks varied from a weight of 320 grams at four weeks, to 360 grams at four weeks.

L-Hook Shelves

WASTE space between shelves in a kitchen cabinet may be utilized by the installation of simple hanging shelves on which small items such as cups and saucers, salt and pepper shakers and bric-a-brac may be stored.

Usually small in size due to space limitations, these shelves ordinarily are from six to eight inches wide and from twelve to twenty inches long. Make them from Masonite quarter-inch tempered hardboard.

Insert long L-shaped hooks through drilled holes in the hardboard and then screw them into the shelf above. The hooks should be near the edges and at the corners of a shelf which is not longer than one foot. Intermediate hooks inserted mid-way on the long sides of the rectangle should be used if the length is greater.

Paint or enamel the shelves, as desired, using an undercoater and two finish coats.

The same principle of attachment may be used for other small shelves similarly located.

Plenty of Meat Now on Market

Seasonally large supplies of live stock to be marketed in the next 60 to 90 days indicate that consumers will continue to have plenty of meat at reasonable prices. H. M. Conway, market analyst for National Live Stock Producer, points out in the September issue that seasonally increased numbers of grass fat cattle, lambs and hogs will be marketed this fall.

A number of fed cattle will be marketed during late September and October, and a more orderly marketing of range and grass cattle is expected during the fall and winter months.

THE SPRING pig crop will be marketed largely during the late fall and early winter. Prices are expected to hold stable reflecting a 10% cutback in the spring pig crop and a high consumer demand for pork products. The scarcity of medium to heavy hogs continues to be quite significant. This has been reflected in higher lard prices and increased value for the heavier and fatter cuts of pork.

Peak lamb marketings are expected during late September and early October. This is about normal but there is a tendency to market the lamb crop earlier than usual due to drought conditions in the Southwest. There will be an estimated 7% increase in this year's lamb crop indicating that slaughter of lambs will afford a supply closely in line with last year's crop.

Dairy Day at Urbana Set for September 10

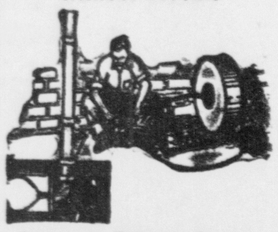

A special event for Illinois dairymen will be held on the University of Illinois campus in Urbana September 10.

©Small Homes Guide

A feature of this retirement house—a plan which appears in the current edition of Small Homes Guide—is the convenient room at the front which can be used as an office, hobby room or a bedroom for the visiting son or daughter and family. The solarium is another attraction that offers hours of pleasure for the retired couple.

The area of the plan, by Architect Rudolph A. Matern is 1,336 sq. ft. Information on blueprints and their cost may be obtained by writing to Small Homes Guide, Dept. 1274, 82 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Illinois.

India Making Progress Since U. S. Technical Help Started

Americans can be optimistic about their country's efforts to help India through the technical assistance program. And the India people are doing much themselves to make the aid effective.

Those are the main impressions gained by H. C. M. Case, head of the department of agricultural economics, University of Illinois college of agriculture, and Deane G. Carter of the department of agricultural engineering.

"I'M MORE optimistic now than when I left," Case says. "India as an independent nation is only five years old. There's a definite enthusiasm among college students, teachers and government officials for improving Indian conditions. You can't help being impressed by their interest and intent eagerness. And They're making progress."

Case is chairman of a University of Illinois committee in charge of cooperative program with Allahabad Institute of Agriculture. He and Carter traveled some 3,000 miles in India, visiting training institutions and rural communities and talking with students, teachers and government workers.

INDIA'S GREATEST need is to develop technical skills, the men agreed. These must come through programs of agricultural extension. Eighty per cent of the people live in rural villages, and food is a primary problem.

That problem is recognized and is being attacked by the government and colleges of the country and by the Ford foundation. The government has a five-year plan in which some $5 billion will be spent in developing transportation, education and agriculture. The Ford foundation is sponsoring 34 centers to train agricultural extension workers.

ALLAHABAD is a pilot institution in the training program. The school has long had a reputation for good teaching, but only recently undertook a comprehensive program. Allahabad is also placing more emphasis on research programs, which University of Illinois staff members are helping to develop. The school is being enlarged to accommodate 500 students, including 100 home economics students.

Case and Carter were impressed with the Indian institute of technology at Kharagpur, which is now in its third year. Plans are to increase enrollment by 300 or more a year until it accommodates 2000 students—a third of them graduate students.

* * *

OTHER ASPECTS of the country were impressive for a nation that has been independent for only five years, the men reported.

One railway shop is building or reconditioning more than 10,000 units of railroad equipment and building four air-conditioned coaches a month.

India is now manufacturing an automobile. And the country is making good progress in developing hydroelectric power and associated industries.

Remodeling Or Building A Home? Learn Heating

If you are building a new home or remodeling an old one, don't depend entirely upon someone else to determine the comfort factor—the selection of your heating system.

It isn't meant that you should become an expert on heating systems and try to displace the contractor. But it's wise to know what you want and what you are shopping for in something as important as your everyday comfort at home.

You should know, for instance, that there are "wet" and "dry" heating systems. Wet heat utilizes hot water or steam as the heating medium and requires only piping, whereas dry heat employs hot air and special ductwork. You should know that while wet heat is adaptable to any size or type of building, dry heat may run into structural limitations.

WET HEAT may be distributed into the rooms through convectors or cast-iron radiators. Convectors are streamlined, self-contained heating units which have smooth surfaces to blend with modern interior design. They are considerably lighter than the old-style radiators and for equivalent heating capacity are smaller.

In addition, convectors, because their heating elements are copper or aluminum, respond more quickly to temperature demands of a thermostatic system and also stop, without overrun, when desired room warmth is attained.

CONVECTORS are made in shapes and sizes to fit virtually any heating or decoration need. They may be recessed completely or partially in the wall or installed as free standing units with back flush against the wall. Fully recessed, convectors require practically no floor space; with back flush, they extend only a few inches into the room. Thus, they economize on space, make versatile room arragement possible because the convector surface never becomes hot enough to damage furniture. Convectors may be painted to match or contrast with room decoration.

Howard Lester coached the past two years at Shelbyville and will replace Raymond DeGreeff as varsity basketball and baseball coach. He will teach biological science. He holds his B. A. from Illinois State Normal.

The midshipmen represent NROTC units from 27 colleges and universities throughout the U.S.

While at sea, they received practical training in gunnery, navigation, engineering, and every other phase of shipboard duties.

Army Pfc. George M. Weiland Jr., whose parents live in Prairie View, is serving with the prisoner of war command during "Operation Big Switch," the prisoner exchange in Korea.

His wife, Joan, lives at 301 S. Dunton st., Arlington Heights.

The task being accomplished by the POW Command could be compared to that of moving all the inhabitants of a 100,000 population American city nearly 500 miles by ship, truck and rail. The job is further complicated by the need for full time security guards and the adherence to a tight schedule.

Bombing Tunnel in Korea Wins Swanson Air Honor

Capt. Russell Swanson, 30, reported to Pensacola, Fla., September 1 after spending a 21-day furlough with his family in Prospect Heights. Capt. Swanson, who entered the service in 1942, had just completed 101 combat missions against the enemy in Korea, flying Corsair attack fighter bombers.

His wife, Barbara, and 7-year old son, Helge, have accompanied him to Florida. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nath Swanson, 304 Lonsdale rd. Mr. Swanson is construction superintendent of the new Lutheran Home and Service For the Aged. Capt. Swanson has three brothers, Bob, Richard and Glen.

Capt. Swanson received the distinguished flying cross at a forward air base of the first marine aircraft wing in Korea. He received the award for "extraordinary achievement while participating in aerial flight against the enemy in Korea." He was flying a corsair attack fighter bomber with the "Deathrattlers" squadron of marine aircraft group 12 at the time of the action that resulted in the award.

While a member of a flight of marine attack aircraft January 4, 1953, Capt. Swanson engaged in aerial assault against a loaded enemy supply train known to be sheltered in a tunnel near Sinmac, Korea. Diving his aircraft to an extremely low level, despite precipitous terrain and the intense barrage of hostile fire, Capt. Swanson skipped two bombs directly into the mouth of the tunnel.

The precision placing of these bombs caused continuing secondary explosions of such violence that large amounts of debris were blown from both ends of the tunnel and the entrances were sealed, according to the citation that accompanied the medal.

"Capt. Swanson's courageous actions and successful bombing accuracy, against an almost inaccessible target, were largely responsible for the accomplishment of a mission that seriously damaged a vital link in the enemy's attempt to resupply front line troops by rail. His outstanding professional skill, exemplary initiative and steadfast devotion to duty throughout, reflected great credit upon himself and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service," the citation continues.

During World War II Capt. Swanson saw action as a pilot of a Grumman "Avenger" torpedo bomber at Tinian and Iwo Jima.

Released from active duty in 1946, he entered the University of California and was graduated in 1950 with a degree in agriculture science.

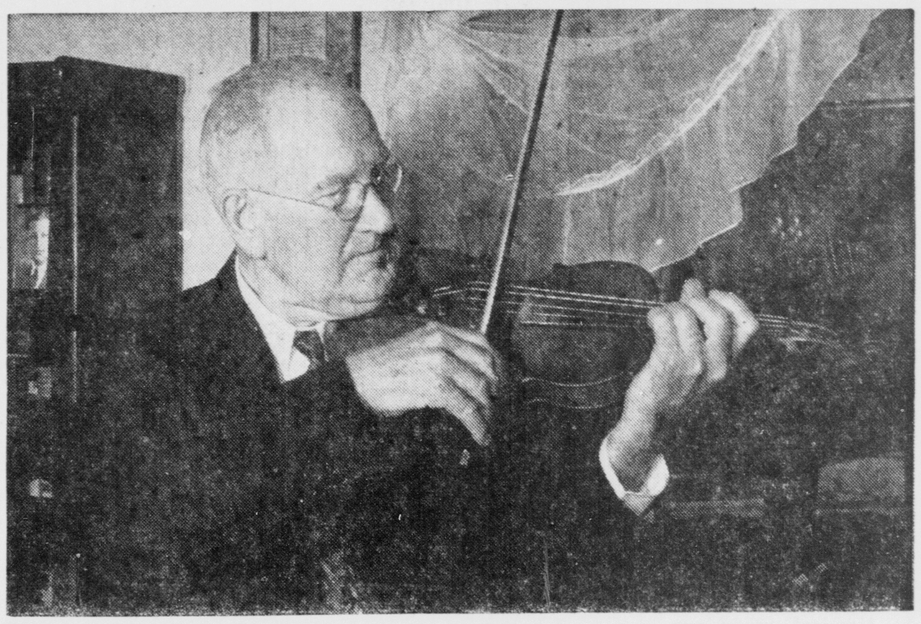

Recalled to active duty with the marine corps reserve in October, 1951, he was stationed at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif., before going overseas.

He has also received three air medals presented with a navy commendation ribbon, the good conduct medal and seven gold stars.

Heat Varies Little

Tests conducted in rooms heated by new baseboard convector units show only 2 to 5 degrees temperature difference between floor and ceiling. This contrasts to a difference of 10 to 20 degrees between floor and ceiling in rooms heated by old-fashioned units.

Now In 50th Year Of Music Instruction

Three generations have learned music from Walter Sears of Barrington pictured above, including many former students of Arlington Heights high school. Sears considers the violin the "master of all musical instruments."

Callers at the Grove avenue home studio of Walter N. Sears in Barrington usually are greeted with musical notes or scales issuing forth.

A life filled with music is the record that Mr. Sears enjoys.

At 70 he is still going strong giving private lessons in stringed and wood wind instruments, and many of the children taking lessons now are third generation pupils, whose parents and grandparents are counted among his former students.

* * *

HIS CAREER to date includes 50 years of private teaching with some 35 years of instruction at schools. The number of persons musically influenced by the tall, dignified maestro are countless.

A credit to her father's musical reputation is Miss Beth Sears, who is engaged in a gratifying musical career. She is a member of the North Carolina symphony orchestra, occupying the first oboe position.

Mr. Sears has been surrounded by music since he was born in a home in the Algonquin hills.

His father, John L. Sears, was a school teacher-musician and his mother was a singer. When he was 1½ years old the Sears family moved to Sioux Falls, S.D., where he grew up with Myra Hamilton, who became his wife.

* * *

AT 18 MR. SEARS returned to Barrington so that he could study music in Chicago. He prepared himself for teaching by many years of study and diligent application.

About this time his brother, J. I. Sears, a pianist, established the Sears school of music in Barrington.

While studying and teaching Mr. Sears lived with his brother and sister-in-law and the family group had their meals regularly at the old Commercial hotel which was operated by Linus R. Lines where the Strand Dress company is now located.

Mr. Sears was a student at the Chicago Musical college for seven years, graduating in 1908. He specialized his study on the violin—still his favorite instrument—and orchestral work and conducting.

THE VIOLIN, he explained is the master of all instruments.

"The reason why many persons don't like it," he said, "is because so many musicians murder it. It takes long, serious study to become a skilled violinist."

In 1911 Mr. Sears joined the faulty of the Sears school here and the same year his brother died. Mrs. J. I. Sears took over as director of the school which was affiliated with the American Conservatory and continued its operation until 1922.

After the dissolvement of the Sears school, some 700 children benefited each year for nine years by Mr. Sears' training. He was instructor of band and orchestra at the grade and high schools at Crystal Lake, Woodstock, McHenry, Wauconda, Arlington Heights and Dundee.

He taught at Crane private school near Wheeling for 12 years and on the Barrington faculty for 3 years.

Mr. Sears discontinued his work in the public schools in 1946 to devote his time exclusively to private teaching.

* * *

"CHILDREN have too many activities and distractions today, keeping them from the many hours of practice that is necessary in order to become a skilled musician," is the answer Mr. Sears gave when asked to make a comparision of the music pupil today — flooded by music via television, radio and records — and the student of a half century ago.

Regular, uninterrupted practice is required by the person who aspires to be an able performer, he stressed. "Success in music comes through diligent and devoted practice."

He recalled a familiar line propounded at the Sears school: "You will never play better than you practice."

Mr. Sears has hopes for the future of music, for despite all the distractions and television and radio there are still some serious minded youngsters. He stressed the importance of parents' cooperation for the music pupil. "Parents have to be with the student." he said.

Home From Cruise

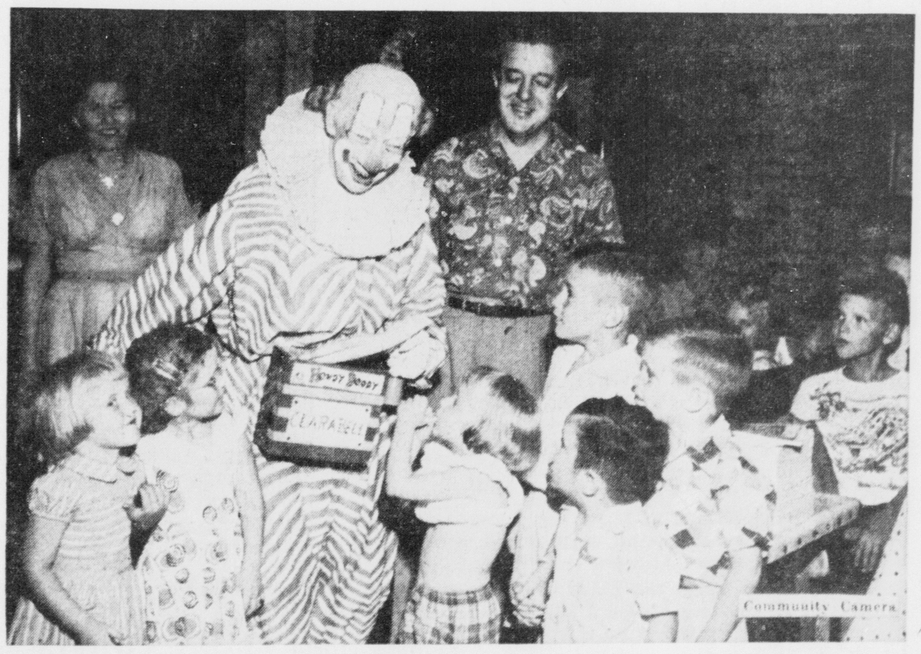

Ensign Paul E. Ransdell returned home Monday, August 31, after a year's cruise on an aircraft carrier escort, the U. S. S. Bairoko. Paul, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. The Bairoko has been based at Yokosuka, Japan, operating around Sasebo, Japan, and off the coast of Korea.

Ensign Ransdell served as signal officer, communications officer, and air ordnance officer.

He graduated from the University of Illinois on an N. R. O. T. C. scholarship.

Pictured are Mrs. Jeffery, son, Joe, daughter, Violet, and Mr. Jeffery. Mrs. Jeffery caught the biggest, a 15 pound northern pike. The balance of the catch includes 40 walleyes, 10 northern pike, and 12 perch. The Jefferys' daughter, Charlotte, (not pictured) was also among the lucky fishermen. The 10-day vacation was spent at Lake Kabetogma, Minn.

QUITE CONTRARY

BY MARY

Oh, for the joys of the open road with the car full of all four of our cherubs arguing as to which one is due to ride in the middle for the next 50 miles. We have been in southwestern Illinois and we have only one thing to say about it, the people are fine but the weather is just a little bit hotter if possible.

We were talking to some of the farmers of this section and they all reported that the beans will have to be harvested too soon and the corn is just about burned up. It may not make too much difference in the corn crop as it has eared out pretty well but some of the beans haven't beaned as well as they should have. They haven't had a good rain since early in July and all the trees look grey with dust.

The funniest thing in the world is to listen to little girls who have never been on a farm before make comments. One of our small fry was upset when she went into the chicken coop after dark. She rushed out to report that the stupid chickens had not gone into their holes to sleep but were standing up on the bars. We all figured out that the holes were the laying nests and she thought they should at least sit down when they sleep. Well, chickens are pretty dumb birds.

Our visitor in England has given us a further report on the state of things there and in Scotland. This report will be of special interest to us females because it is on males. She says that the English are very friendly but the men are especially so with the women being very, very reserved. Now in Scotland the country is rugged and so are the people but the men all have a wonderful twinkle in their eye. We are not here to report that these facts are the absolute truth. We can only pass on the information and the line of women taking off for the British Isles forms to the right and stop pushing us.

We would like to give the community some secret formula with which to beat these darling record heated days. But, we are sorry to say that we have tried hot drinks, cold drinks, unsugared drinks and outside of spending 24 hours in a bathtub which is far from practical, all we can suggest is that we take some pride in this. After all, one has to admit that we have had MORE weather than usual. Our hearts go out to the poor clothing merchants who are trying to interest the buying public in fall clothes for school, college, and just general wear when all the public is trying to do is find a quiet spot to shed what he has on. Well, back to the bathtub.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

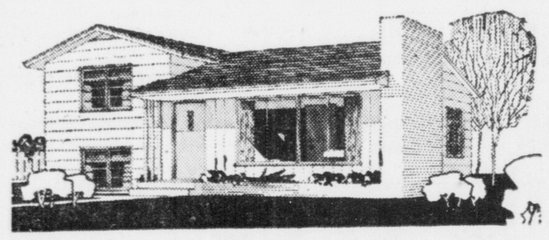

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

"The laborer is worthy of his hire," the Lord hath said,
And promises to furnish him with all his daily bread;
But in times past the worker fought to set his rate of pay
Or fought for good conditions, or for limits to his day.

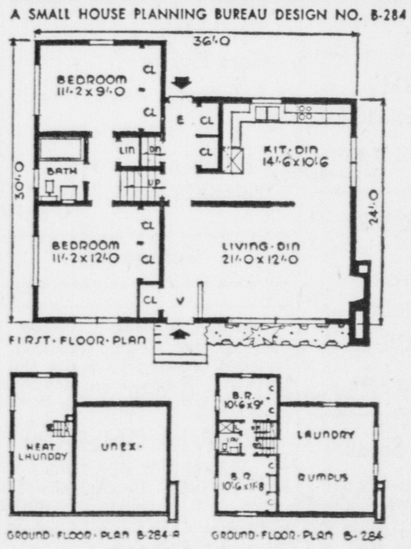

The fight between the worker and the man who set his wage
Would often come to bitter blows and bloodshed in its rage,
While children, in innocence, would oft from hunger weep,
And worried mothers tost in vain at night to get to sleep.

Today, the attitude of men who work and those who hire
Is setting an example that most all of us admire;
They meet on matters that conflict, and reach a common ground
With logic, not in anger, that is better all around.

For those few who still resort to rule of tooth and fang;
Who still resort to boycott or the use of bomb or gang;
The Nation, in her anger, rises up to put to shame
Their tactics, with good advice: "Grow up, and play the game!"

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

FROM PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

Of all the different kinds of parties one can have, I think showers are the most interesting to plan for—and when it's a shower for a first and long awaited addition to a little family, it's especially fun. When I told Barbara, over a month ago, that I wanted to have a luncheon shower for her, she insisted that it would be too much trouble for me, what with taking care of Megan and Bridget and all. In fact, she practically had me talked out of it.

However, I told her than I had a month to prepare for the day, and if in that length of time I couldn't produce a smoothly running party I might as well crawl into a shell until my child bearing career was over—and I had no intention of doing that!

SO, THE STORK-DECORATED invitations went out, the acceptances came in, and on yesterday, one of the hottest days of 1953, I served up punch, sandwich loaf, molded salad, potato chips, ice tea (by the gallon) and cake to twelve girls and got three lively tables of bridge going. I'm happy to say that due to zero hour planning the shower was a success and I managed to be a more or less calm, cool and collected hostess.

In order to do this it was necessary to spend three or four days before the party collecting and buying all the paraphernalia and food for the day: card tables, extra decks of cards, punch glasses, gift for Barbara (a sweet white corduroy jacket with embroidered pink teddy bear and matching diaper cover), prizes for bridge (white guest towels for the winner and doll made of pink and white wash cloths for the "booby") and so forth. This left the day before the shower to clean house and prepare the food.

I'VE HAD SOME HECTIC DAYS in my time, but that day took the cake! Megan and Bridget woke up early, as usual, had breakfast, crawled into their bathing suits, and started toward the back door for their daily trip to the beach. Imagine their shocked surprise when I passed them in the hall going in the opposite direction and armed with dust mop, vacuum sweeper, dusting cloth and furniture polish. They looked at each other as if I had taken leave of my senses, and then followed me into the living room to see just what I was going to do with all those things I dragged out of the cleaning closet, where for days they had stayed quietly in the dark.

Crestfallen they watched me plug in the vacuum sweeper and start to work, and with the realization that I was not on my way to the beach, came tearful pleading.

Just as all good mothers are supposed to do, I genty urged them to "help Mama"—this was my undoing! Off Megan went, as sweetly as could be, to her room to clean the pale pink walls with her purple-chalked black board rag, and Bridget to the kitchen to rid the pantry of one old box of cereal, one-half sack of flour and a box of sugar.

This was only the beginning. The whole day was like this. How is it that children seem to sense when you are trying to complete your chores within a certain length of time, and do everything within their power to prevent this? Sometimes I think they are little demons in lambs' clothing. By 8:30 p. m. (five hours off schedule) I was ready to make my chicken salad—cream cheese and pineapple sandwich loaves and my lime jellow, cottage cheese, walnut, pineapple and whip cream molded salads.

THE NEXT MORNING I had nothing to do but take Megan to nursery school, where she was to stay for the day, ice the loaves and decorate them to resemble packages with pale green bows and ribbons, and mix up my pink punch concoction. The punch bowl looked very pretty on the table with pink zinnia and rosy pinks flower arrangement, and my ribbon bedecked, four-poster cradle was already to hold the gifts by the time the guests started to arrive.

While we drank punch, Barbara opened her gifts and found all sorts of lovely things from a serviceable plastic diaper bag and darling little combination clothes tree and night light, to a practical terry cloth sleeping ensemble and cuddly, baby blue sleeping dog.

Before she had finished with the gifts, I had all the food out since there was nothing to do but carry it from the refrigerator to the table. The afternoon went very fast, and before long the girls were saying goodbye, and I was left with that very happy feeling every hostess has when she knows that her guests have enjoyed themselves.

My love,
Patty.

Hospital Survey Report Given to Arlington JC'S

Wheeling township JC's have received the hospital survey recently ordered by them.

The JC's a year ago adopted a hospital as their major project and hired National Fund Raising Services to make a survey and secure an estimate of cost.

The project has now reached a point where a larger group is necessary. The formation of special committees to secure a state charter, to contact medical groups and local physicians has been authorized, and temporary chairman, Ted Seiler, is now consulting various groups to complete committee memberships.

The hospital must necessarily serve several townships, but the survey covers only Wheeling township: The introduction to the report reads in part as follows:

"In Arlington Heights and the Wheeling township area, hospital, medical, and clinical facilities have been left far behind in conforming to the needful pattern of a turbulently growing community.

"Singularly enough, of all of the essential requirements of a modern community, one of the greatest, and one of those in most demand and acceptance by its residents, is that of immediately available and adequate hospital care.

"Public demand and need is measured by the statistics of admissions, percentage of occupancy, and average daily census. For example, during the years 1950 and 1951, three out of every four hospital beds in the United States were occupied at all times.

"The case for modern hospital expansion today is strong. As the first law of nature is self-preservation—so the concern of the public is for adequate hospital care. Everyone occasionally considers the tragic possibility that there might not be a place for him or his loved ones in time of desperate need.

"Communities are responding to capital appeals for funds by hospitals in amounts never before thought possible. Throughout the United States the proper appeal for hospital facilities has reaped an abundant harvest as each community is brought to realize that a first-class hospital is a prime community asset. This development is socially and economically sound.

"Thus, on an overall national basis, the background for a campaign for a Wheeling township hospital is favorable.

"National Fund-Raising Services, Inc., was retained professionally by the Wheeling township Junior Chamber of Commerce to conduct a study and survey to determine the possibility of organizing a fund raising campaign, for the purpose of raising money to build and equip a hospital in the area. Specifically, our commission was to investigate the problem objectively and tell whether you should go ahead or not; if a fund raising campaign was a possibility; how much might be raised; when, and how.

"After preliminary study, our Mr. Francis C. McClung, Senior Survey Engineer, came to the conclusion that the best way to study these problems was from the following approach:

1) to secure a broad perspective of the over-all situation in the opinion poll of the community leaders;

2) to determine what the actual need was for hospital beds in the area, in relation to the number of people who could conceivably be potential patients;

3) to consider the hospital potential of the future;

4) in the light of the above, to analyze the possibilities and requirements for achieving the recommended financial objective;

5) to set forth a plan of campaign organization, designed to realize the financial goal, answering the questions 'how' and 'when' the money is to be raised;

6) to estimate the costs of the recommended fund raising effort—the campaign budget;

7) to summarize the finding and recommendations of the study as a whole in this, the written report.

"This has been our approach in this study and report.

"In consideration of the challenge and opportunity facing Wheeling township today, the opportunity to establish a modern medical center and hospital, liberally endowed to carry forward treatment, research, and hospital care, stands on the horizon of reality. The proponents and nucleus of backers are capable, conscientious men and women and, moreover, have in their hands the power and responsibility to decide the future of this project.

"With the already existing large crop of children, resulting from the enormously expanded birth rate, beginning in 1942, it is obvious that the community medical demands will become most acute by 1956. Arlington Heights, with 1,100 children in high school, coupled with the continuing and expanding birth rate, absolutely already requires large facilities for pediatrics, surgery and internal medicine. With the increase of polio, heart disease, and cancer, the populace has increasing demands for complete diagnostic and physiotherapy and occupational therapy departments, as well as modern, fully equipped pathological facilities. An out-patient clinic should also be included in the original planning."

The complete survey is too voluminous to publish in its entirety, but it will appear in part in succeeding issues of this paper. The editors believe that the project is so important it should have the widest possible publicity. Future extracts from the report will appear on page one of section four.

Kinsey Report

Many writers are making capital (money) out of the news that Dr. Kinsey of Indiana university is producing a book about "sexual behavior in the human female." In the face of the situation I like your editorial comment which points to a moral uplift in the human race with the statement, "The activities of the home and church and kindred organizations could nullify many of the statements in that report."

You comment on the assumption that now there can be no more secrecy about the facts of life, and the effect that Dr. Kinsey's book could have. Well, so far as the sons and daughters of farmers are concerned, they know the facts of life rather well by observing the animals in their care.

As to the facts of life in the human creature, that of course is another question and possibly Dr. Kinsey is trying to show that both human males and females are not as temperate in their ways of living as the creatures called cattle on the farm. Perhaps he is trying to effect a moral uplift in the human race by showing the "immorality of man."

It may be that Dr. Kinsey's for man to self-examine himself revelations will be the incentive and adjust his mode of living so he will keep himself strong physically, mentally and spiritually.

I believe you have opened up your Fence Post to a forum on Dr. Kinsey's revelations.

Pay Shortage

You mentioned in your editorial last week that local manufacturers are experiencing a shortage of help.

Did they ever consider paying their help a little more money?

Being a newcomer to Arlington Heights, I decided to get a job close to home instead of commuting to Chicago's loop. I knew I would earn less money, taking into consideration the time element and railroad fare, but never dreaming that an experienced girl (13 years) in all phases of office work would be offered $190.00 month, 40 hours per week.

Of course, this is only one reason (my version) for a shortage of help in and about town.

All in all, we like living here and enjoy your paper very much . . . wish it were out more than once a week.

Police Routine

I would like to say "thank you" to the parents who so thoughtfully commended the Arlington Heights police department last week.

People seem to think that small town policemen, especially, spend their time marking tires and hiding behind signboards.

When people who could easily be thoughtless due to the trying situation in which they met the police, take time to write their thanks, it makes us all feel it is worthwhile to do our duty, routine as it may be.

Blood Program

Chicago's defense blood program, which has received such outstanding support from the press and other public information media, ends on Monday. The office of defense mobilization has ordered the program operated by the Chicago Red Cross chapter to close August 31.

This recent directive by the ODM, which conducts the national blood program, affects 14 other defense blood centers which have also been collecting blood for the armed forces and for polio-fighting gamma globulin. It does not affect 45 regional blood centers at which Red Cross will continue to collect blood for the armed forces and gamma globulin, and for use in civilian hospitals.

Since this chapter reactivated its blood program in May, 1951, Chicago area citizens have donated over 171,000 pints of blood for our war-wounded and for children exposed to polio. A great majority of these citizens were inspired and motivated to give blood by the tremendous support which members of Chicago's newspaper profession have given to the blood program.

Red Cross must respond and comply with requests by our government and its armed forces because it is obligated by Congress to do so. The help and cooperation which you have extended to Chicago's blood program has, however, been completely voluntary — yet always generous, always quick to meet the emergency appeals the Korean conflict often demanded.

In its blood program, in its annual appeals for funds to maintain Red Cross services and for volunteers to carry out these services, the Chicago chapter owes deep gratitude for the excellent and sympathetic help which you have always been prompt to give through Paddock Publications.

As the operation of the Chicago blood center comes to a close, I sincerely hope that you feel a deserved pride for having done so much to help our nation meet its needs for lifesaving blood during a most critical period.

Samuel G. Creden
Chairman, Chicago chapter

A Good Editorial

Thanks for the copy of editorial from Paddock Publications. I am always glad to see 4-H club members receive a well deserved recognition.

I particularly like the statement in the editorial that the "foundation for living that the boys and girls are getting in their 4-H club work gives them a good credit rating for American living."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

In combining people and places in pictures, decide which one you want to feature and make the other part of the subject secondary.

Picturing People and Places

THE two most popular subjects for vacation snapshots seem to be people and places. Very often the two are combined in one picture, with the people in the vacationing party being photographed in the various places of interest visited.

In today's column I'd like to take up ways and means of making this combination of places and people as successful as possible and to discuss how to make each and every picture an important part of the vacation picture story.

When one or more people, and an important place, are a part of the same picture, you can't very often give them equal billing. You you have to feature one or the other. When both subjects are important to you at the same time, the best thing to do is take two pictures. In one snapshot, feature the place, including the people, if you wish. But do it in such a way that the people are definitely secondary. Use them as props to help emphasize your primary subject.

In the next picture, feature the people and let the place serve as a distinctive background.

In the picture above, the photographer's interest was obviously centered on the magnificent snow-capped mountain view. The three people in the foreground are not featured at all. Yet, their presence, with backs to camera, in the foreground, helps give a true picture of the depth of the scene. The simple fact that they are looking at the scene adds to its significance.

If the photographer had wanted a good picture of the three people, all he would have need to do was turn the people around, to face the camera and moved in closer. Then the people would dominate the picture and the beautiful mountain scene would merely become an attractive background setting for the primary subject.

The important thing about picturing people and places in the same picture is to stop and think which you want to do and snap them one at a time.

—John Van Guilder

Lessons In . . . . English

by W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused

Avoid such barbarisms and word-distortions as: Complected, broadcasted, enlargen, disremember, hisself, yourn, preventative, anywheres. Instead say: Complexioned, broadcast, enlarge, don't remember, himself, yours, preventive, anywhere.

Do not say, 'The reason for this is because he tries too hard." Say, "The reason for this is that he tries too hard."

Do not say, "I propose to accept their offer." Say, "I intend to."

Do not say, "It was saturated by water." Say, "saturated with water."

Do not say, "Have your typewriter fixed before it is too late." Say, "Have your typewriter repaired."

Do not say, "Give us proof of the veracity of these statements." Say, "the truth of these statements." "Veracity" refers only to persons.

Words Often Mispronounced

Lissome (limber). Pronounce as liss-um, accent on first syllable.

Larynx. Pronounce the a as in care, not as in far.

Irreparable. Accent second syllable, not the third.

Corroborate. Pronounce second syllable as rob, not as robe, and accent second syllable.

Fascism, Pronounce fash-izm, a as in fashion, accent first syllable.

History. Pronounce in three syllables, an not hiss-tri.

Words Often Misspelled

Ascent (act of rising). Assent (to agree). Accidentally; not accidently. Correspondent (one with whom intercourse is carried on by letter); two r's. Psychic; though pronounced sigh-kick. Foliage; observe the ia. Coyote; though pronounced kie-ote.

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

INDIGENOUS; inborn; inherent; innate. (Pronounce in-dij-e-nus, accent second syllable). "There are certain feelings indigenous to man."

INFLEXIBLE; firm in will or purpose; resolute; determined. "A man of upright and inflexible principles can accomplish much."

INNOVATION; a change or novelty, especially in customs, manners, or rites. "They were opposed to innovation."

FELONIOUS; malicious; villainous; traitorous. "Was this done with felonious intent?"

SERVILE; characteristic of a slave or servant. "The workman had a servile manner about him."

STRINGENT; strict in requirements. "It was a stringent code of procedure."

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE

Q. Is it proper to thank your hostess for a meal in her home?

A. No; the only one who gives thanks for a meal is a begger. Do not say, "Thank you for the delicious dinner," but instead, "I've had a wonderful time," or, "It has been nice being with you." It is more proper to indicate your enjoyment of the visit, than of of the fact that you've been fed.

Q. Are relatives and friends obligated to send gifts to an engaged girl?

A. No. Just before the wedding, and upon receipt of an invitation is time enough for this.

Q. Is it ever permissible to leave the spoon in the coffee cup?

A. Never; the spoon should always be placed in the saucer.

Q. Will you please explain the proper manner of eating soup?

A. Dip the farther edge of the spoon into the soup and direct it away from you and towards the outer edge of the plate. Do not fill the spoon to the brim. Put the side, not the point, of the spoon into the mouth. And remember, no noise while sipping the soup!

Q. To whom should wedding announcements be mailed?

A. Only to those people who did not receive invitations to the wedding.

Q. When a man is walking in the rain with a woman who is carrying an umbrella, should he offer to hold it?

A. Yes, this would be courteous.

Q. Is it necessary to acknowledge an invitation received to a church wedding?

A. Only when the invitation includes one to the reception.

Q. When one enters a restaurant carrying several packages, where should these bundles be placed?

A. If there is no check room, place them on a vacant chair. If the resturant is crowded and chairs at a premium, then place the packages under your chair.

Q. Should a woman, after the death of her husband, be addresed as "Mrs. Mary Gilbert" or as "Mrs. Thomas Gilbert?"

A. The death of her husband in no way affects the name by which the woman is known. She continues to be "Mrs. Thomas Gilbert."
